Tells Newsmen Russian ICBM 'Absolute Arm'

CALLS FOR COLD WAR END

(Editor's note: William Randolph Hearst Jr., editor-in-chief of the Hearst newspapers; I.N.S. reporter Bob Considine, and Frank Conniff, national editor of Hearst newspapers, held a three hour, 35-minute interview with Nikita Khrushchev, No. One man in the Kremlin. In this report on the interview, Bob Considine tells in detail what Khrushchev had to say about Russia's military potentials.)

MOSCOW (INS) — The Soviet Union has won the arms race against the United States, Communist Party Leader Nikita Khrushchev declared in the course of a lengthy talk with publisher William Randolph Hearst, Jr. "We do not want to continue the arms race," said the top boss of the Communist nations and their peoples, numbering nearly half the population of the world.

"We have already won over you. We have the absolute weapon. We have the most modern rockets. I say this not to intimidate the United States or any other nation. But it is just a fact that we have the ICBM (intercontinental ballistic missile) and various other rockets of all sorts and systems. "We have all the bombs, A-bombs and H-bombs. In this respect we have proved our superiority."

"If war should break out—and it could be started only by the United States because no other nation would dare—this could lead to a great war," Khrushchev said dispassionately.

"Stricken From Earth "Your cities and bases could be stricken from the face of the earth. This, I repeat, is not a threat. It is simply that we are obliged by circumstances to take the defense."

"And remember, your overseas bases are yours but they are surrounded by the peoples of those countries. You will see, one day they will awaken from their slumber and recognize the folly of depending on NATO and such alliances for their protection."

"The people of the United States now living never fought on their own territory. They do not understand war. They must understand that the next war, if there is one, will not be fought in Africa or Europe or Asia or some place like that."

"But from the very outset, and immediate, it will be fought on United States soil."

"The United States is the country of the main adversary. The American people would suffer huge losses in any ICBM war. Then too our submarines could launch lesser rockets from closer positions."

Memento Filled Office Khrushchev spoke in his big memento filled office high in the main headquarters of the world Communist movement—the party's central committee building. A simple nameplate was stuck to his door. It read: "Comrade Khrushchev, N. S."

But the atmosphere behind the door belied its simplicity. We were plainly in the office of a leader who had his statements on the tip of his tongue and under no compulsion to beg anyone's leave before giving forth. Khrushchev's remarks were not in any way confined to war talk. He spoke at length on what he termed Russia's desire to enter into trade relations with the United States and predicted eventual victory of Communism over democracy in varied fields in an age of peaceful coexistence.

Would Give ICBM Plans Khrushchev offered to give the plans of Russia's sputnik-launching ICBM to the United States if America ends what he calls the prosecution of the cold war.

He hinted that the Red Army's general staff has principal American targets at home and overseas pinpointed with poised intercontinental and other rockets. He stated blandly that Russia could "tomorrow" put up "10 or 20" new sputniks, and reminded his listeners that each sputnik means the expenditure of the kind of super missile the United States does not yet possess.

Fears 'Mad' SAC Pilot He feared a "mad pilot," presumably from the Strategic Air Command, might misinterpret or violate orders, bomb the Soviet Union, and unleash a retaliatory attack which would cause untold death and destruction in the United States and among its allied peoples.

Khrushchev added that this same retaliation would take place if the USSR was attacked by an American ally.

Hearst leaned across the long conference table and asked, "Do you really believe the United States wants war?"

Khrushchev regarded Hearst for a time and replied: "What is the United States you speak of? The people? Certainly they do not want war. They are afraid of it. So is the American bourgeoisie, some of its capitalists, its intellectuals and so forth. They do not want war."

"But the monopolists do! They profit by it. They forget that a cold war can become a hot war."

Told Nobody Wants War Hearst turned to the young interpreter and said to him "tell Mister Khrushchev nobody wants war. We realize it would mean catastrophe."

"President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles don't want war," Hearst went on. "Not a single soul in the United States wants war."

Nixon Tabs Manifesto A Warning

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Vice President Nixon Sunday night labelled the newest Communist party peace manifesto a blunt warning that Russia is launching "a massive non-military offensive aimed at the overthrow of all free governments."

Nixon said this is a "challenge the free world cannot and will not ignore." But he cautioned that "in responding to this new challenge, we must avoid extremes of panic and complacency."

He said the nation must undergo "economic sacrifice" for an indefinite period in fighting the cold war. But "panic can lead to hasty and ill-considered programs," he added.

The vice president spoke to the National Council of Catholic Youth.

The Manifesto His speech centered on the made-in-Moscow peace manifesto published two days ago by the Communist parties of 64 nations. The manifesto appealed to the world to stop the arms race, ban nuclear weapons and abandon military bloc policies and promised "we will free the world from the danger of war, death and destruction."

Nixon said it would be "foolhardy for us to brush" the manifesto aside "on the ground that it contains the usual lies and distortions which have characterized such statements in the past."

As a result of the manifesto, Nixon said, the free world can expect:

"The dictators of Moscow will sharply step up their economic, psychological, and subversive activities all over the world."

"They will emphasize again the popular front tactics which fooled so many well-intentioned people in the past."

"Ruthless control and domination of Communist governments and Communist parties everywhere by the men in the Kremlin will again be the order of the day."

If there was ever any doubt, Nixon said, the Kremlin leaders "have reaffirmed their goal of world domination by non-military means if possible, by war if necessary."

ELLEN SMITH HALL... NU landmark to be torn down.

Ellen Smith, NU Barracks Ordered Out

The University of Nebraska's Board of Regents authorized Saturday the removal of Ellen Smith Hall, site for many years of women's activities, and four temporary barrack-type buildings erected during the post-war enrollment peak.

Ellen Smith Hall, which was acquired by the University in 1920, will be removed from the northwest corner of 14th and R sometime this spring, Business Manager Carl Donaldson said.

The board also agreed to permit the Alumni Association to remove woodwork, hardware and colored glass from the building to equip a memorial room in the Student Union Building.

Ellen Smith Hall now houses the Division of Student Affairs, which is expected to move into the new administration building during the latter part of January.

The four temporary buildings are expected to be removed from the campus by late summer.

Temporary A, on the mall, now houses Counseling Service and the Bureau of Instructional Research. These offices will move into the new administration building.

Temporary B, on the mall, houses the Regents Book Store, which will move to the old administration building.

Temporary C, located north of the Architectural Hall, now houses the physiology department which will move into Bessey Hall after the bacteriology department moves into Lyman Hall.

Temporary D, on the mall, houses the Student Health Center which will move into its new building in late summer.

Ellen Smith Hall, an old landmark in the area, was erected as a private home in 1888 by Frank L. Sheldon at a cost in the neighborhood of $40,000.

With the advent of World War I the YWCA moved into the house and turned it into a hostess house for servicemen. Previous to that the building had been used as a fraternity house.

In 1919 the office of the Dean of Women was established in the building and it was first known as Women's Building.

Shortly after the building was renamed Ellen Smith Hall in honor of the long-time registrar at the University.

Crash Fatal To Lincoln Woman

'Mrs. Ralph W. Holmes Victim On Highway 2 Near Cheney

Mrs. Christine M. Holmes, 67, of 1904 So. 51st died early Monday morning of injuries received in a two-car collision Sunday afternoon where the road to Cheney intersects Highway 2.

Five other persons were seriously injured in the accident that happened shortly after 4:00 p.m.

Mrs. Holmes had been knocked unconscious by the impact and suffered extensive cuts on her forehead and face and a brain concussion.

Her husband, Ralph W., 53, was in fairly good condition with cuts near his eye and a concussion.

Vernon D. Keever, 38, of Cody, Wyo., was driving the other car carrying his three children, Linda, 8, Dale, 9, Allen, 6, and his father, Ora E. Keever, 67, of Quitman, Mo.

Ora Keever was in "serious" condition with extensive face cuts and a chest injury.

Vernon Keever was treated for cuts on his finger and elbow and a possible broken nose and rib. He was in "fair" condition hospital authorities said.

Linda Keever, described as "good," suffered bruises, a cut on her cheek and shock.

Dale Keever, who was in "fair condition," suffered shock, a broken nose, possible skull fracture, a broken left leg and cuts.

Allen Keever was not injured but he was admitted to the same Lincoln hospital as the others.

The Holmes couple had been to Cheney to get eggs, Safety Patrol authorities reported.

Surviving Mrs. Holmes besides her husband are a son, Herbert Holmes of West Covina, Calif., and a brother, Daniel Hlavaty of Lincoln.

The state patrolman said he stopped the car containing the six for speeding 1/2 mile east of Maxwell. When the driver and the passengers failed to show any identification, Lovegrove said he ordered them into North Platte.

Statements taken from the youths said they had broken into several business places in their flight across Nebraska, but they were unable to identify the towns in which the breaks took place.

Lovegrove said three large meat knives, some cash and cigarettes were among items found in the car.

Plattsmouth police officer Estil Jenkins said the six, arrested for disturbing the peace Saturday night, had broken up a bed in the jail and used the railings to pry the bars until they loosened a couple of bolts.

Free from their jail cell, Jenkins said, the six then took the bed railings and broke a glass and the bars covering a coal chute and crawled to freedom.

Father Of 3 To Be 'Sister' Of His Wife

... British Scientist 'Changes'

ROSYTHE, Scotland (AP)—A 40-year-old scientist, married and the father of three children, told a news conference Sunday he is changing sex, but will continue his work and will live with his wife "as a sister" to keep their family together.

The scientist, Frank Little, is chief of a team engaged in electronics research at a big naval base here.

He said he will work dressed as a man to meet official requirements, but the rest of his life will be lived as a woman.

'Great Strain'—Wife

Mrs. Little said she had undergone great strain "watching my husband, despite himself, becoming more and more a woman every week."

She and the superintendent of the Admiralty research establishment, R. H. Richards, attended the news conference.

Richards said he had asked Little to make the statement to bring the matter into the open.

"Mr. Little is a brilliant scientist and I have every confidence in his capabilities," Richards said. "At present he is sitting on the fence of nature, but as far as I am concerned he will continue to work at the establishment—dressed as man, of course."

Little, who has two sons 18 and 16 and a daughter 8, talked to reporters with his wife at his side.

He was dressed in a green coat, red high heel shoes and nylon stockings. He carried a red handbag and wore makeup and costume jewelry.

"My biological and psychological systems began to change, and about 10 months ago I began to go out with my wife dressed as a woman," Little said. "I became terribly unhappy as a man and just normal as a woman."

He said he and his wife decided to get medical help and doctors now are watching his progress.

"At the present moment I am still physically a man, and it may be two years before I know which course nature will take," Little went on. "At the present moment I have every desire to be a woman. I even object to being called Mr. Little."

His wife said the children had been told about their father's change and the family will stick together.

"There will of course be some cruel people who will cause our children a great deal of anguish, but we have to decide for the best," she said.

"My husband and I think there will be more benefits for the children if the home is not broken. I have now learned to accept it, and I now feel toward my husband as a sister, and I believe we can still keep our home a happy place for all of us."

SUCKED INTO JET ENGINE, AIRMAN LIVES

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A ground crewman was sucked into the air intake of an F-86 Sabre jet fighter Sunday and lived.

A 2c. Curtis L. Large suffered scalp cuts, a broken arm and shock.

The accident happened at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base near here.

Air Force officers said quick action by the pilot Lt. John F. Gaylord, in turning off the engine saved Large's life.

Suction from the engine drew Large about 12 feet into the intake as he started to inspect the plane's wheel blocks, witnesses said.

Rains Flood Northern Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—At least 24 persons drowned and another 21 are missing after heavy rains flooded northern Algeria, according to incomplete reports.

Hundreds of other persons were rescued, mainly by members of the 400,000-man French army fighting the Algerian rebellion.

Most of the dead were soldiers drowned on rescue missions.

Helicopters ordinarily used in operations against the rebels evacuated hundreds of stranded persons and brought food to isolated villages.

U.S., Bonn Pronounced 'In Accord'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and West Germany were described by Secretary of State Dulles and Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano Sunday as "in accord on major policy questions."

The agreement was announced after the two foreign policy leaders concluded an intensive round of conferences on proposals for strengthening the Atlantic Alliance.

Von Brentano flew into Washington, spent two days talking with Dulles then took off for Europe.

He was enroute back to Rome where he will rejoin German President Theodor Heuss on a visit.

Not Spelled Out

While neither Von Brentano nor Dulles spelled out what they meant by agreement, the implication of what they said was that they would work together in the NATO summit meeting at Paris next month to achieve:

1. A much greater degree of political consultation among the 15 NATO allies than now exists.
2. The largest possible co-operation—or pooling—of scientific research and development for military and peaceful purposes.
3. A greater sharing of the tasks of the Alliance, although it was understood that West Germany has made plain its disinterest in going into missile production in behalf of the allies. U.S. officials have been studying the possibility of missile production in various countries.

Bases Not Discussed

Although Von Brentano said that Dulles and he had not discussed creation of missile bases in German territory because that is a matter for the military, it was reported the discussion had brought understanding that establishment of missile launching sites would create no serious problem since they would be, for the time being at least, under operational control of American rather than West German forces.

The foreign minister appeared quite happy with the results of his strenuous trip. When he went into Dulles' house he said the United States and Germany had agreed that "regular political consultation" was necessary within NATO. He also spoke about agreement on the need for increasing scientific co-operation.

"I am really deeply satisfied with the talks," Von Brentano said. "Although the trip was straining, it was good, important and successful."

An hour later, when he left Dulles, he said the talks had been excellent.

Dulles Says Goodbye

Dulles went to the airport to say goodbye. He did not see off French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau who conferred with him early last week on the Tunisian dispute. However, Pineau left on a working day while this was Sunday.

When reporters asked him to sum up the conversations Dulles said he agreed with Von Brentano that they had been "highly satisfactory" and that "we found ourselves in accord on major policy questions."

While all informants agreed the area of accord did cover major principles expected to come up at the December NATO session, it did not mean that Von Brentano and Dulles saw eye to eye on everything.

In fact, Von Brentano conceded that there were "differences in nuances."

Before he came here the German had spoken out publicly for mandatory or compulsory consultation among the Atlantic allies. He argued that some such system would possibly prevent such splits as the U.S.-British rift with France over arms to Tunisia. At the least it would let other nations know what was going on.

U.S. officials said this country could not tie its hands with advance agreements to inflexible procedures. The general U.S. position is that no other government, no matter how close and friendly, no organization, even NATO, can get any kind of a veto hold on U.S. policy-making which might prevent vital decisions in time of crisis.

PARALYZING TEXAS SNOW SETS MARK

DALLAS (AP)—A record 14 inches of snow paralyzed Concho County in lower west central Texas Sunday, blocking roads and stranding an estimated 300 motorists for hours.

Oldtimers called it the heaviest snow in memory in that area.

Constable A. C. Paris Eden said 200 vehicles were marooned between the small town of about 2,000 and San Angelo. Some motorists stayed with their cars while others were able to make their way into Eden.

Nobody Hurt

No loss of life was reported and no motorists were hospitalized.

Many motorists stopped off to wait out the storm at Eden, where all night cafes were jammed.

The storm apparently was part of the dying kick from a weekend frontal system which shrouded the panhandle-plains sector earlier. It brought the earliest snow in history Saturday night to parts of south central Texas.

Laredo, on the Mexican border, got its first snow in a decade as freezing temperatures nipped at winter vegetables in the lush middle Rio Grande area.

Constable Paris said highways were reopened and all of the stranded motorists were on their way.

Kennedy Hears Self Termed '60 President

BOSTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts was boomed Sunday night for president by Rhode Island's governor, Boston's mayor and labor leader at an Italy-American gathering to honor him.

Gov. Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island said of the Bay State Democrat, "I will help nominate Sen. Kennedy for president at the 1960 convention."

A crowd of 1,000 roared with cries of "Kennedy for president" and Mayor John B. Hynes predicted that "in 1960 we shall greet you as president John F. Kennedy."

Joseph A. Salerno, regional director of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, told the audience, "let us start here to place Sen. John F. Kennedy in the White House in 1960."

Kennedy gave no indication, however, as to whether he had presidential aspirations.

Alaska Air Guard Plane Hits; 4 Die

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Four men on an Alaska Air National Guard plane, which was unable to land here because of the ban on night landings at this mountain-ringed city, died as it crashed in a light snowstorm.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration station on Icy Strait, 50 miles west of here, notified National Guard headquarters that four of the seven other men aboard "needed medical attention."

The dead were all Alaskans.

Messages from the CAA at Gustavus gave no details as to where the crash occurred but the plane was scheduled to make an instrument landing there. Its last radio message, as it began an instrument approach, was five minutes after it was due there. Snow was falling and the ceiling was 800 feet.

The four man crew of the C-47 transport, a military version of the DC3, was returning seven Alaska National Guardsmen from a National Guard personnel conference at San Francisco.

Ike's Paris Stay At Least Three Days

PARIS (AP) — President Eisenhower will spend at least three days in Paris next month to discuss new U.S. proposals for bolstering the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Sunday.

Hagerty arrived to work out press arrangements for the NATO summit meeting beginning Dec. 16. Hagerty made it plain he was dealing only with the president's part in the meeting.

He did not discuss the U.S. program. It is known to consist of proposals for co-operation in development of nuclear weapons, now limited by security regulations, and a vast program of U.S. contributions of nuclear weapons to NATO countries.

There also will be discussions of such problems as aid to Tunisia, a sore subject after the violent French protests against U.S. and British supplies of arms to the new little republic.

Eisenhower is expected to reach Paris about 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, and will stay at the residence of the U.S. ambassador, Amory Houghton.

Asia Geographical Factors Stressed

The importance of geographical relationships in the current attempt of both the West and Russia to capture the allegiance of the Asian peoples was stressed Sunday by Dr. R. J. Bowmen of the geography department of the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Bowmen spoke on "Asia and the War of Ideas" before a meeting of the Union College faculty and staff.

Arable land is scarce, Dr. Bowmen said, and this scarcity makes it seem that these countries will never be able to match the standard of living of the United States. Overpopulation was listed by Dr. Bowmen as another facet of the problem when he told the faculty group that if all the ships on the seas were to anchor off the Indian coast and were to transport people out of India as fast as possible, they could not even keep the population of that one country from increasing.

3 Dates Set For Reports On Normal School Funds

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Three important dates are coming up for presidents of the four state teachers colleges and members of the State Normal Board as the result of charges by State Auditor Ray Johnson that a recently completed audit of the normal schools shows apparent irregularities in handling of funds.

Following a meeting with Johnson and State Tax Commissioner Fred Herrington, Normal Board members requested the four college presidents to submit reports answering the auditor's questions to the Board by Dec. 7.

These reports will be considered by the Board members at their next meeting, tentatively scheduled for Dec. 14, which each college president and bursar has been requested to attend.

The Board then must submit its explanation of the alleged irregularities to Johnson by Jan. 1.

Johnson said if the board has not submitted its explanation by Jan. 1, "a decision will have to be made as to whether the matter should be referred to other officers of government for appropriate action."

May Go To Beck

There also is the possibility that Johnson may refer the matter to Attorney General C. S. Beck if the Board's explanation is deemed unsatisfactory.

Johnson charged that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957, the four normal schools listed dormitory operating expenditures totaling $28,674 in state tax funds and other non-dormitory revenue.

Board Secretary E. Albin Larson said this practice was stopped last December after a warning from Herrington.

On the individual school level, Peru State Teachers College and its president, Dr. Neal Gommon, came in for special criticism from Johnson.

Club Dues Questioned

The state auditor questioned some of Gommon's expenses, including being paid for dues and fees to the Lincoln University Club, the president's receiving a check for the sale of a deep freezer and refrigerator to Peru College and reported failure to turn in some expense accounts.

Dr. Gommon said he had prepared tallies of his expenditures on the trips in question, but that they may have been improperly filed; that his University Club membership was the result of a "tacit agreement" with the Board to provide a meeting place; that he purchased the appliances at a bargain, paid for them personally and was reimbursed.

Johnson said state officials are prohibited by law from doing business with the state.

Sales Questioned

On this same matter, Dr. Barton

Kline, president of Chadron State Teachers College, was questioned about the sale of a mangle and cattle to the college he heads.

Dr. Kline said he sold the mangle to the college because they needed it and he didn't, and the cattle were 4-H baby beehives he bought for the school with a personal check.

Johnson also reported that he recently refused to honor a voucher for $106 for coffee and doughnuts for Kearney College faculty coffee breaks during student registration this fall.

Credit Card Said Used

The auditor also charged a Kearney College employee has been using a state gasoline credit card for his personal car, a practice Johnson decried even if the card is used on state business.

Except for the expenditure of non-dormitory revenue for dormitory operating expenses, Wayne College seemed to be in good order.

Herrington questioned the normal schools' purchasing methods and said his office would investigate them after Jan. 1.

He cited an incident of Peru and Chadron Colleges' each purchasing used automobiles for about $1,900 when the state was purchasing new cars for about $1,400.

Man Very Serious After Losing Leg In Fall From Train

L. L. McManaman, 45, was in "very serious" condition in a local hospital Sunday evening after losing his right leg and receiving other severe injuries in an accident at the Burlington Depot late Saturday.

McManaman, of 2835 So. 41st, an employee of the Railway Express Co., slipped beneath the wheels of an express car from which he was alighting as the train pulled out of the station at an estimated 12 miles per hour, according to police reports.

The doctor who attended McManaman at a Lincoln hospital said his right leg had to be re-amputated. His right elbow was shattered the doctor said, and the victim suffered multiple fractures in his left leg.

Indications were, police said, that he was dragged about 21 feet as he clung to the hand rail of the car before he fell.

According to reports he was off duty at the time of the accident, but he boarded the train to see if his pay check had come.

GOP Scores 'Two-Faced' Demo Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican National Committee Sunday accused the Democrats of inconsistency on national defense spending and said they reduced U.S. military power to a "dangerously low level" when they were in office.

The GOP committee's attack was in a leading article in a special defense issue of its publication "straight from the shoulder." The party organ is sent to more than 350,000 GOP leaders and party workers.

It was made public on the eve of a Senate preparedness subcommittee inquiry, aimed at speeding up missile programs, under the chairmanship of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.).

The article said a few months ago Democrats in Congress were complaining that the Eisenhower administration was too lavish in defense spending. Now, it said, they are calling for "crash" programs which would cost many times more than funds they refused to approve last spring.

'Their Blunders'

"When these persistent, if not consistent, Democrat critics express their views on the problems of national defense today," the article said, "they invite attention to their costly blunders of the pre-Korean period."

"While condemning the Eisenhower administration one day for doing too much and the next day for doing too little they prefer to forget that it was they who reduced our military power to a dangerously low level by imposing cutbacks which affected every branch of the armed forces between 1946 and 1950."

The article said when the Democrats were in power they "failed to provide the military strength to meet effectively the attack on freedom made in Korea in 1950 (as they had failed to make us ready for the attack on Pearl Harbor nine years earlier)."

HOW LEADING HOSPITAL STOPS SORE THROAT PAIN FAST

Amazing new iodine gargle soothes, helps heal inflamed tissue

Science now releases world's greatest germ killer in safe, pleasant gargle form for throat infections!

Doctors in leading hospital have discovered new, fast relief for painful sore throat with revolutionary new type iodine gargle. In clinical tests on hundreds of patients suffering from worst sore throat pain, over 9 out of 10 obtained relief. Doctor said, "Results were often dramatic!"

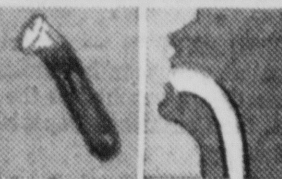

First used in babies' throats under doctors' supervision it quickly stopped the dreaded throat infection, "thrush." The secret is a remarkable scientific advance—detoxifying iodine! to make it safe yet potent to use. Here for the first time is the full power of iodine at work in a gentle soothing film so that throbbing, rasping throat feels better fast. New gargle coats raw, painful nerve ends inside throat and mouth where pain starts—while it kills bacteria that cause infection. Sen. Flanders Calls For Disarmament Plan, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) called on President Eisenhower Sunday to balance a projected speedup in missile production with a comprehensive plan for future world disarmament.

Flanders is a member of the Senate Armed Services preparedness sub-committee which begins a public inquiry Monday into measures needed to bring this country abreast of Russia in space weapon developments.

While this investigation will center on efforts to accelerate missile production, Flanders said in an interview he hopes disarmament will not be lost sight of in the surge to match Russian advances.

"President Eisenhower should make a definite pronouncement of what proposals we intend to make for future disarmament at the same time he lays out the program for immediate armament," Flanders said.

Must Tell Neutrals

"The neutral nations of the world should be told where we stand. Russia must not be permitted to gain a propaganda advantage by being able to say that we are tossing overboard all plans for future disarmament in our haste to produce missiles of all kinds.

"The President should make it clear that we stand ready to enter future negotiations for the control of the intercontinental ballistic missile. It is a missile of terror and not a military weapon at all."

Eisenhower said in his last televised address to the nation that the world needs a "giant step toward peace" more than "a giant leap into outer space." He urged Russia to go along with what he called "workable disarmament proposals" now before the United Nations.

These generally are focused on attempts to control nuclear weapons. Harold E. Stassen, presidential disarmament assistant, has said the Russian sputnik launchings ought to make the Soviets more willing to act toward disarmament.

Notes Red Attitude

Flanders noted, however, that Soviet spokesmen in the U.N. now are contending the western proposals are "unrealistic" and are blaming the United States for the stalemate which has developed in international negotiations.

A Russian spokesman said the Soviets were ready to discuss any "serious approach," but he contended that proposals thus far have reflected "only the side of the western powers." He added that "disarmament problems cannot be resolved on the basis of one side."

Flanders said he believed the United States could capitalize on the situation by a new statement of disarmament aims.

"It seems to me," he said, "the President could well afford to say that we are willing to agree to disarmament on the basis of mutual self interest. We must preserve our freedom to use tactical weapons to counterbalance Russian superiority in manpower and materials.

"But if we pushed it hard enough, it might be possible to negotiate the disarming of some areas on both sides of the Iron Curtain, with an inspection system provided for them."

Sen. Saltonstall (Mass), a member of the preparedness subcommittee and senior Republican of the parent Armed Services Committee, said this week's investigation may show the United States is trying to develop too many missiles at once rather than concentrate on a few.

Saltonstall said a purpose of the inquiry will be to "reassess our situation." He said the need for such a reassessment was speeded up by Soviet progress in the missile field.

But Saltonstall said he believes the United States is ahead of Russia in overall military power although he conceded the Soviet Union appears to have progressed further with intercontinental ballistic missiles.

FRENCH MAKE RIGHT MOVE—PROVE TO WINNIE THEY'RE DIPLOMATS

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill thinks the French are the world's best diplomats—and he has a good reason, his former valet said Sunday.

Norman McGowan, told of a visit with the former prime minister to the French city of Nancy. Churchill who holds the French Medaille Militaire, was to meet all the local holders of the same medal at a reception.

McGowan said he readied Churchill's clothes with the medal ribbon in the left lapel of his cutaway coat. Churchill studied himself in the mirror and said it should be in the right lapel.

The valet explained he had checked with French authorities. Churchill didn't budge. He insisted it must go in his right lapel, and it did.

When the reception was over, the valet related, Churchill returned to his suite with a broad grin.

"Rather sheepishly he said: 'Norman, the French are the best diplomats in the world,'" the valet related.

"Then he told me what had happened. 'I was introduced to all the holders of the Medaille Militaire in Nancy,' he said. 'They all wore the ribbon in the LEFT lapel.

"But before the reception was over they had all discreetly changed it over to the RIGHT lapel for my benefit."

From Now On, Prove It

Two weeks after President Eisenhower gave the American people the outlines of this nation's lag behind Russia the grass roots response has been one of mounting pressure on its school system. The sense of urgency has not yet made itself felt in the field of politics, business or general habit of life. That will come later.

But it is evident this early that changes are in store in education and entrenched education will make a mistake to choose the line of defense. It will be better if it takes the initiative recognizing that what once may have been the best of all educational programs does not fit current needs. The public will be generous when presented with a new program professionally prepared and well aimed at the target.

A re-directed educational program will be one of the most simple of the nation's problems for it is a problem that can be delegated to professional educators. It will be more difficult for the rank and file to find their own place in this age of tension and science. A change toward more scientific education will go farther than professional preparation. It will be futile if American children cannot take it and if American parents are not prepared for the change in child rearing that must accompany each change. It is just a question of time when the problem of sterner learning comes home to roost.

If this nation is to remain in the van in this scientific age it must take on the mentality of science. It will not be a time when imagination and fancy fly out the window but it will be one in which those two must be discarded if they cannot be proved. This will silence most of the thinkers of the day and almost all of the politicians and it will elevate the man of whatever station who says the provable thing. The persuasive voice and the leader by position rather than capacity must go the way of the medieval metaphysicians simply because they couldn't deliver the goods. It will be difficult for America to discard such institutions.

Partisan Legislature

Both political parties in Nebraska have renewed their long-standing position in favor of a partisan legislature for the state. The advocates of such a change have some strong arguments in their favor but the question is far from one-sided and should be given careful thought before it is endorsed.

The question of partisanship versus non-partisanship dates back to the early 1930's when the late Sen. George Norris and those who supported him fought for the kind of unicameral we now have in Nebraska, despite objection from both political parties at that time to the non-partisan feature. Some say there is incongruity in advocating a non-partisan state legislature while supporting partisanship on the national level.

There may be some truth in this but it is not quite that simple. There are fine lines of difference involved, not the least of which is the fact that national issues involve the varying

Point Of View

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

A lot can be said for that old statement that many things depend on how you look at them. So many things are not just a question of the facts involved, but the basic philosophy of each individual. This is clearly shown in a group of publicity releases coming in the mail this week from one single source. This source, hitherto unknown, is the Industrial News Review put out by Hofer & Sons of Portland, Oregon. We don't know who backs Hofer and Sons but you can draw your own conclusion from what they send through the mails.

To be fair with Hofer & Sons, it should be stated that they admit what they have to say is nothing more than the opinion of their own editorial department. They credit their financial support to industry, business and professions, including public utilities, retailers, railroads, mines, manufacturers, food processors, petroleum, financial institutions and others. One of the first articles in the release by Hofer & Sons is a scorching denunciation of the Tennessee Valley Authority. TVA is attacked mainly on the grounds that it pays no interest on federal government loans for building power facilities, which it does pay, and that it pays no federal income taxes, which is just one side of the story. Millions of dollars have been paid into the federal treasury by TVA with loan interest and principal payments. As to federal taxes, money not so paid in this way is passed on to TVA customers in the form of lower electric power rates. TVA belongs to the people of the area it serves, so what is illogical about those people receiving its benefits?

Also overlooked in the broad statements made by such groups as Hofer & Sons is the fact that TVA and all other such operations were there for the asking by private enterprise before the public agencies were formed. Had the private utility boys wanted to, they could have developed a TVA and the present organization would never have come into existence. In like manner, the private utilities could have served the rural power load in America but they refused to do so. Now that TVA and the REA's have become valuable properties, private utilities are willing to step in and take them over. A real show of generosity.

Another of the provocative articles from Hofer & Sons deals with taxes and the coal industry. The article backs, with little logic, the National Coal Association's Tax Committee proposal for an increase in the 10 per cent depletion rates for coal companies. This is the system by which federal taxes are paid on earnings after a set percentage—in this case, 10 per cent—has been deducted. The reason given for an increase in the coal depletion rate was that the rate is 27½ per cent for oil and natural gas producers. Coal, said the release, is simply asking for just and reasonable treatment. An industry which is starved for profit, said the release, can't do the job of which it is basically capable—and which this expanding nation sorely needs. Maybe we have been living in the dark ages but it has been our understanding that private enterprise involved several principles, one of which was risk and another of which was its own ability to make a profit. But here, Hofer & Sons wants the people of the nation to pay the taxes of the coal industry so it can make a profit for its own owners, not put any savings in the taxpayers' pockets, as TVA does.

The Industrial News Review is also not without a story about Nebraska. The story deals with what the INR reports to be the attitude of "horror" of public utility groups here to a move by municipalities to tax public power agencies. For one thing, there is no move to tax agencies as such. The move is directed at Consumers Public Power District and it is not looked upon with "horror." The only issue involved is one of whether the tax can legally be paid by Consumers. Well, no issues have been settled here, we are certain, but we hope those who would listen to the INR will also look the other way now and then.

Fear Johnson Will Be Too Soft Handed

WASHINGTON — When likeable Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas calls a galaxy of brass-hat experts on missiles and satellites to testify before the TV cameras and the Senate Preparedness Committee today, he will begin one of the most important Senate probes in years. It is vital to the defense of the nation.

But some of Lyndon's colleagues, who in the past have given him the nickname "Lyn" Down Lyndon," have their fingers crossed regarding the final result. They figure Lyndon will start off with real fireworks, but they are not sure what will happen after the first week of hearings.

Reason for their skepticism is Johnson's pattern of probing in the past. For some time he has been chairman of the Senate Preparedness Committee, yet he has held no very important probes in recent years. And when he did run into two dynamite-laden scandals he suppressed the facts.

One was his investigation of gangsterism on the New Jersey waterfront where the U.S. Army lost millions of dollars by hiring gangsters. Johnson never did publish this report, even fired the two investigators, Downey Rice and George Martin, who prepared it.

GENERAL MOTORS PROFITS

The other was his probe of airplane profits, showing that the Allison Motors Division of General Motors made Sabrejet engines for the Air Force in 1950-51 at a profit of 39 per cent. They did this by charging a 10 or 12 per cent profit by one GM subsidiary, then a profit by the next GM subsidiary, then another profit by the third GM subsidiary.

While lagging far behind in Sabrejet production, General Motors executives had time to get houses and barns built for themselves at cost by a construction company doing business for the government—Huber, Hunt, and Nichols.

Daniel Babcock, chief engineer for GM's Allison Division, got a $31,000 home built for $15,800. Edward B. McNeill, a GM vice president, got an air-conditioning system installed at cost—$3,890.18. GM official I. E. Settle got a barn built at cost.

All these facts were censored. Johnson's investigation of the New Jersey waterfront likewise was suppressed, though later Governor Dewey's crime commission revealed some of the shocking facts.

Johnson's probes found that after the Army took over Jersey City's Claremont terminal, dock workers played poker on Army time, shot dice, bribed, pilfered, peddled dope, and amused themselves by crashing Army fork-lifts into each other—all under the nose of the Army Engineers.

The Army contract with Dade Brothers, Inc., was so lucrative that in four weeks alone Dade Brothers pocketed a profit of $281,876.33, according to Johnson's investigators. Copyright 1957 By Bell Syndicate, Inc.

ED FITZHUGH

Spanking Is An Art, Both High And Low

The career of Mrs. Frances Dodge of East Boothbay, Me., is a monument to parental cowardice. Mrs. Dodge, a 48-year-old grandmother of more than average wisdom and experience, is a professional spanker.

Parents who take from Mrs. Dodge, according to all accounts, are highly satisfied with the results. This would seem to indicate that the lady applies the flat of her palm with a great deal of understanding and love to what has been called the seat of all learning.

Nevertheless, it is doubtful that her most effective approach can actually accomplish all that a spanking should.

Spanking is an art. To reach full efficiency, it requires all the delicate thoughtfulness that goes into painting or music. While the immediate result may have no similarity in sound to the symphonies of Bach or Gershwin, the end result is a harmony which often can be achieved in no other way.

I am not an advocate of indiscriminate spanking. Everyone knows mothers and fathers who are themselves so emotionally unstable that they fly into a rage and cuff Junior's ears, shake his shoulders or otherwise inflict physical insult upon him while screaming reproaches in a fashion more like a wharf brawl than a family scene.

Such parents most often exercise no discrimination, sometimes punishing for small infractions which happen to get on their nerves and leaving really serious violations go unchallenged.

Another type of spanking which can do more harm than good to children is the promised one which is never delivered. In the case of the hysterical parents who spank indiscriminately, Junior gets an early and continuing taste of emotional instability without reason or logic, and is apt to pattern himself after it. In the case of the promised but undelivered spanking, little Mary gradually comes to believe that if she can just stand the shouting she can get away with anything.

To my way of thinking—and the system has worked admirably in our family—a spanking should be a judicial punishment administered only after careful consideration of offense and a thorough explanation to the child of what he has done that is wrong.

Most important of all, there should be no anger involved on the parent's part. Fact is, it doesn't do any harm at all if the youngster knows that the spanking is entirely distasteful to the one administering it.

Children have an innate sense of justice which, if developed at all, will cause them to accept punishment in the spirit in which it is given. Mrs. F. and I have remembered for many years the time when our son, Lee, then about 6, had committed some infraction of the rules that called for discipline.

We held a family council and the decision was made that stern measures were necessary. Out of a desire to get out of applying the paddle, I had an inspiration. Lee was given his choice between a hard spanking and the loss of his freedom to play outdoors for three days. He took three minutes to think it over, and chose the spanking.

A phenomenon many parents have noticed who spank wisely is the tremendous surge of affection for them which appears in their children, usually beginning an hour or so after the sting has departed from the small bottoms.

Children like to think that they're important enough to their parents to be reared correctly—and they sense the difference. (Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate)

Russ Sports Stars Held To Little Gain

MOSCOW — This was an exciting sports week in Moscow. On Thursday, only five days after it happened, the American colony learned that Oklahoma had upset the dope by holding Notre Dame to a single touchdown. A wayward traveler enroute to Minsk brought the news. Pravda had ignored it for some inscrutable reason.

We also made a study this week of the parallels between the Russian and the American outlook on sports and found none. The big difference concerns dough. There are very few professionals in Russian sports, as we in the United States think of professionals.

The heavyweight champion of Soviet boxing, for example, would not be paid a percentage of the gate he might attract, nor any cut of TV fight pictures. He might, however, be able to command a few more rubles from the boxing lessons he gives to children and aspiring pugilists.

It's the same with top people in most sports. If they live off their game they do so through instructions or they are in a sense underwritten by their university, institute, factory, the army, navy (Vladimir Kuts, for example) and so forth. The Dynamo soccer team last Sunday won the Soviet football league championship for the eighth time since the league was formed in 1940. The members are all Moscow cops or Red Army men assigned to the police force. They consistently drew crowds of about 100,000 each game this season, but the players themselves get nothing directly.

The money goes to furthering sports in the Soviet Union and building such magnificent sports arenas indoor and outdoor as now have risen in Moscow.

There is no imperialistic baseball or golf in Russia but plenty of tennis in season. It wouldn't be surprising to see Russia enter the Davis Cup play soon. As was the case with the Russian Olympic team they won't move until ready.

There has been a tremendous interest in basketball since its invention here by a physical culture professor at the local Young Men's Communist Association (YMCA). Volley ball is even more popular because it's simpler. The family takes the volley ball and net to the picnic ground as readily as it takes food and drink. (Copyright, 1957, By INS Inc.)

NATO Meet To Help World Relations

WASHINGTON — In all matters having to do with co-operation in the use of new weapons, those planning the NATO meeting in December are making much progress, and this is so widely known that in this department there may be nothing to reveal at Paris.

Agreements to put launching sites for intermediate range ballistic missiles in Western European countries are so far advanced as to be all but ready for formal signing.

The way in which specialized tasks are to be shared has been thoroughly explored, with the likelihood that broad agreement can be reached. It may be possible, for example, that ultimately the United States will concentrate on the intercontinental ballistic missile and Britain on the IRBM. The goal is to concentrate and specialize so that each power will not feel that it must have a navy, an air force and every other prestige arm of the military.

NATO will have a stockpile of atomic weapons, and the key to their use will be in the hands of the NATO commander in Europe. The commander is an American, General Lauris Norstad, which should make congressional approval of this arrangement much easier.

This progress is, in large part, due to the Soviet Sputniks. The sense of urgency they created has spurred the resolution of differences that have been a drag for months, if not years, on NATO planning.

But what the planners are discovering once again is that it is much easier, in the face of new dangers, to take essential defensive steps than it is to come up with a new and constructive approach on the political-economic side.

And at the same time there is a keen awareness of the need to develop a positive approach above and beyond the arms race. Peoples everywhere, the evidence indicates, are more and more resistant to the concept of the two scorpions in a bottle ready to fight to the death.

The Soviets, in the meantime, go on peddling their peace line—peace, it is hardly necessary to add, on Soviet terms. The immediate danger—and it came close to preventing France from forming the present government after six weeks of no government at all—is a revival of the "popular front" between Socialists and Communists on the imperative of peace. In Italy, the Nenni Socialists the other day returned to the "popular front" union with the Communists with whom they had broken off earlier in the year.

Simultaneously, Russia is greatly expanding a program of economic aid and the political penetration that goes with it. In country after country, from India to the new African nation of Ghana, the Soviets are distributing their bets where they believe they will do the most good—in conspicuous projects visible to hungry, barefoot people.

So within the western community the plaguing question is: how can what was designed as a defensive military alliance, made up of sovereign nations, be expanded into a constructive political and economic union? The answers thus far all seem to add up on the negative side—the reasons why NATO cannot be an instrumentality to provide a common program, for example, for the development of the Middle East.

At the meeting of the NATO council last December the report of the so-called "three wise men" committee on how to co-operate in non-military ways was presented. That report makes odd reading today, for it spells out—in generalities, at least—many of the prescriptions now being sought in specific terms.

The report called for much closer political consultation so that incidents such as the shipment of American and British arms to Tunisia would not upset the NATO apple cart. It called for consultation on economic problems; it recommended much greater technical and scientific cooperation to improve the quality and increase the supply of scientists and engineers; it urged a closer working agreement in other fields.

Some small steps were taken to carry out these recommendations. But now, in the post-Sputnik era, this is not enough. It is widely realized that a way must be found to pull together all the resources of the Atlantic community.

While the time is short and the answers are hard to come by, the Paris meeting could see a real forward movement as a response to the hopes of free people. Copyright, 1957, By U.F. Syndicate, Inc.

Watch Those Income Tax Deductions!

WASHINGTON — Anyone upset about having to list a $1.50 cab fare on his tax return next year can blame an executive who spent $48,000 on call girls and an undertaker who vacationed in cemeteries.

Those were two of the worst examples of "business expense deductions" which the Internal Revenue considered in deciding to compel even small taxpayers to account for every cent they claim to have spent for company purposes.

Officials cite one flagrant case after another to explain the crack-down, heralded by IRS Commissioner Russell C. Harrington in a June 20, 1957, circular which stated:

"For some time our field agents have been alerted to abuses by income taxpayers in claiming deductions for travel and entertainment which could not be justified as ordinary and necessary business expenses."

The $48,000 for call girls, for instance, was part of $124,712 which a steel broker deducted as "entertainment of customers." He was forced to pay up when agents learned how the customers were being entertained.

In a different vein, there was the funeral director who deducted the entire cost of his vacations as traveling expense because he snapped pictures of tombstones along the way.

This also was disallowed, along with the same undertaker's deduction of his wife's grocery bills as business expenses because she might meet prospective clients while shopping.

Both of these cases were among classics which Harrington's predecessor, T. Coleman Andrews, reviewed for the House Ways and Means Committee in a 1954 hearing which set the stage for the mounting IRS campaign on expense accounts.

One struggling individual, Andrews testified, had to pay "over a million in tax and penalties" after charging off items ranging from a $20,000 stamp collection to fake "salaries" for his 77-year-old mother and 14-year-old daughter.

Andrews said that while this illustrated "that the greedy get greedier" the IRS still must clamp down on little taxpayers, such as the one who claimed eight children as exemptions every year but changed their names on each return.

Under Harrington, the IRS has compiled a more recent collection of unique cases involving expense account padding. As the commissioner put it: "We have been taking a close look at ... such items as club dues, entertainment, travel, maintenance of automobiles, yachts, and airplanes, maintenance of company-supported residences, and so forth."

Of particular concern, he said, is "the use of alleged branch offices established in resort cities for the sole purpose of sending business executives to such cities for vacations."

And then, he said, there are "deductions for the expenses of purported business trips by executives vacationing at resort hotels, expenses of hunting trips, attendance at sporting events in distant cities, and for other non-business purposes, under the guise of necessary business trips."

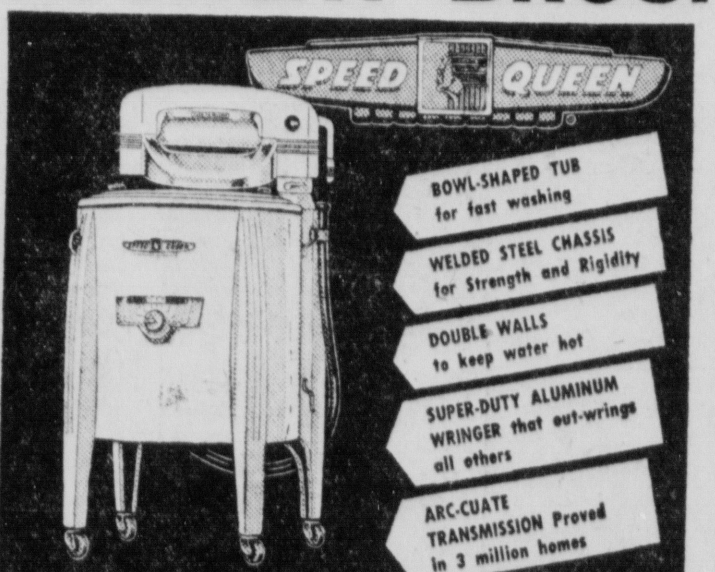

Harrington declared: "We obviously have no desire to tell taxpayers how to spend their money, but we cannot permit expenditures to be deducted for tax purposes without proper justification."

Chancellor To Pick Certification Issue Study Group

Next move in the University of Nebraska teacher certification controversy is in the hands of Chancellor Clifford Hardin who announced Sunday that he personally will pick a committee to study the issue.

Dr. Hardin received permission from the NU Board of Regents Saturday to take the initiative in forming a study group to analyze the situation and the six recommendations for change submitted by 11 Arts and Sciences professors.

Stating that he has not yet decided how many members will serve on the committee, the chancellor said he will make his decision and selections in the near future.

No Authority To Act

The committee, Hardin said, will have no authority to act, but will probably make recommendations.

The committee's proposals will be referred to him, Hardin said, and in turn, he will probably present the matter to the Board of Regents.

The chancellor told Regents that he proposed to "work actively with a committee of faculty representatives to study the petitions which have been presented and to report further to the Board as soon as possible."

The proposals to be studied by the committee, after its appointment, include transfer of the recommendation authority for teacher certification to the Office of Registration and Records from the Teachers College.

The Arts and Sciences group also recommended cutting the amount of teacher training courses from 18 hours required by the state to 15 hours, and allow credit for teaching done by the members in their subject matter departments.

'Intend To Continue'

Dr. Norman Cromwell, professor of chemistry and spokesman for the Arts and Sciences group, said Sunday that "the eleven professors intend to continue to be concerned about methods to be used to bring about desired changes in our educational system," and plan future meetings on the subject.

Cromwell said: "They (the 11 NU professors) believe that the adoption of their recommendations would be a constructive move to raise academic standards in the junior and senior high schools. High school teachers must be more deeply trained in the basic subject matter fields to be able to cope with the ever-increasing complexities of these areas of learning."

The group of eleven professors who made the suggested changes in the certification procedures in Nebraska hope that the new committee to be appointed by the chancellor will begin to operate immediately.

"It is imperative that the University of Nebraska assume leadership in helping to solve the educational problems of urgent importance to the state and nation."

Amendment Presented

At the Board of Regents meeting Saturday, Regent Frank Foote presented an amendment to the chancellor's motion to appoint a faculty committee. Foote's amendment was to accept the six points presented by the 11 professors as board policy and "ask the administration to implement them with all speed."

The amendment failed for lack of a second. Foote voted against the chancellor's motion, with Regents C. Y. Thompson, Clarence Swanson and Jack Elliott in favor of it.

Board President Dr. B. N. Greenberg was not voting but appeared in favor of Dr. Hardin's recommendation.

Dr. Cromwell, in his statement following the Regents decision, explained the background of the Arts and Sciences group's interest in curriculum changes. He said:

'... Before Sputnik'

"Long before the Russian Sputnik started to circle the earth and the American people came to realize that scientists in other countries were capable of great achievement, many American educators were warning us that our system of progressive education had many shortcomings."

"Curriculum changes, more attention to gifted children, larger numbers of better-trained teachers and higher salaries for qualified teachers have long been called for but very few corrective measures have been adopted by our school systems."

"The American people must disjoin themselves from the cult of 'life adjustment' and foster an atmosphere in which intellectualism is honored."

"We must counsel our children in such a way that they will tackle the more difficult basic subjects with enthusiasm. We have allowed the children too much option for avoiding such fundamental studies as foreign languages, mathematics and science in the junior and senior high schools."

'Take It Easy,' Safety Patrol Chief Advises

Whether driving "across town or across the state" on Thanksgiving Day, Colonel C. J. Sanders of the Nebraska Safety Patrol advised motorists today "to take it easy."

"The holiday plans and festivities for some families are always interrupted by unexpected accidents," Sanders said, in recalling that three persons died on Nebraska highways last Thanksgiving weekend.

"With the first large snowstorm of the season last week bringing death to five persons on Nebraska highways," Sanders said, "we know that wintry weather and heavy traffic increase driving hazards."

A study of traffic mishaps has proven that most wintertime highway tragedies can be averted by giving a little more attention to winter equipment and using a little more care in vehicle operation, he said.

The state highway head pointed out that clear windshields, good brakes, safe tires and tire chains are a must for safe winter driving. "Let's show our thanks for the privilege of free use of our highways by demonstrating that we can steer clear of holiday accidents," Colonel Sanders concluded.

Queen Reported Shocked—

Margaret Ducks Palace Party For One Of Own

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret has Buckingham Palace dismayed again by her public display of independence, says the Sunday Express.

The newspaper said Queen Elizabeth II was shocked when her younger sister passed up a palace party last Wednesday for a night out in the west end.

It was a special royal family party celebrating the 10th wedding anniversary of Elizabeth and Prince Philip. The Queen mother and other close relatives attended.

Margaret was invited but, the Sunday Express said, she changed her mind at the last minute.

Dined Openly

Instead the gay 27-year-old princess went to a theater with friends, even dined openly at the swank Savoy afterwards, and showed up at the palace just before the queen's party broke up.

In giving what it called the inside story on the palace party episode, the Express said: "Members of the royal family knew weeks beforehand that Wednesday's palace party was to be held. Princess Margaret was invited to be there. Her change of plan was completely unexpected by the Queen and Prince Philip."

Her midnight arrival at the anniversary party came as a particular shock to the royal family when they found that, in addition to going to the theater, she had gone on to supper. And that she had gone to a public restaurant for this.

Two weeks ago Margaret failed to attend the royal film show of "Les Girls" along with the Queen and Prince Philip although she had no other engagement. But last Thursday night she went with her own friends to see the same picture.

The vivacious princess is strong-willed and determined to be independent. She also takes an implicit delight in what the English describe as "shaking up" aides in the court.

Reds Forecast TV From Moon

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio says Russia will fire an unmanned rocket to the moon in the next five to ten years, equipped with a tank-like mobile laboratory to take TV pictures for earth.

The Russians have made similar predictions before but this had a different twist—TV for earth viewers. Moscow put it this way: "From this laboratory, which would be mounted on caterpillar tracks and resemble a small tank, television pictures relayed back to earth would enable millions of TV viewers to see the moon's landscape in their own homes."

Guests From The West

We're not sure which might be the more exciting to young Daniel Mills—his flight to Lincoln with his parents, Capt. and Mrs. John Mills—or his red flying suit which doubtless, but for the shade, is a replica of his father's.

But anyway—young Dan and his parents are in town, the guests of Mrs. Mills' mother, Mrs. Floyd Rogers, and her sister, Miss Ann Rogers. The five-some will go to Osceola this mid-week to spend Thanksgiving with Capt. Mills' parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Mills.

Capt. and Mrs. Mills and their son will visit both in Lincoln and Osceola before returning to Nellis Air Force Base, near Las Vegas, Nev., where Capt. Mills is stationed.

WELL—the last week of November begins in rather an auspicious manner, but as you probably will discover much of the morning news has to do with Thanksgiving—its guests, and the plans in which the holiday is involved.

We can't think of a better time than Thanksgiving for a family reunion, and apparently the members of the Blankenship family were of the same opinion—So, the Blankenships will have a long week end of reuniting, with numerous extra-curricular parties added for good measure.

INCLUDED in the reunion group will be Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andrews of Medford, Ore., who are due to arrive on Wednesday—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blankenship of Sterling, Colo., who also will come on Wednesday—and Mr. and Mrs. Don Blankenship of Bronxville, N.Y., who are expected on Tuesday evening. The Lincoln members of the family include Mr. and Mrs. Millard C. Lefler and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blankenship. You probably have guessed by this time that Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Lefler are the sisters of Milton, Paul and Don Blankenship, and that the two Lincoln families, Mr. and Mrs. Lefler and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blankenship, have a full calendar of festivities awaiting their guests.

On Thursday morning the family will be the breakfast guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lefler, and Thanksgiving dinner on Thanksgiving night will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blankenship.

ON FRIDAY evening Mr. and Mrs. Al Larson (son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lefler) will be host and hostess at their home when they entertain the reunion group at a buffet supper at their home.

And on Saturday morning Mrs. E. E. Clark will honor the visitors and the Lincoln members of the family when she entertains at breakfast.

A DINNER at the Compass room. LEARNED, too, that Mrs. Bryan has been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Lefler on Saturday evening, in courtesy to the visitors, and on Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Walker Battey and Mrs. Battey's mother, Mrs. L. C. Harnly, will be host and hostesses at brunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Battey.

THEN we heard that Mrs. George Rohman will be a Thanksgiving dinner hostess when she entertains members of the family and a small group of friends at Hotel Cornhusker. Included in the guest list will be Mr. and Mrs. Elton C. Loucks, Miss Patty Loucks and Mr. and Mrs. Al Berger, all of Omaha; Miss Jane Carpenter of Denver; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rohman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. (Ky) Rohman, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Weischel, Mrs. Mary Bigler, Mrs. M. N. Lawritson, Mrs. George Barlow, Jon Lawritson, Mrs. E. H. Dierks and Miss Ruth Louise Dierks.

Lois Stewart, Sunday Bride

The marriage of Miss Lois Stewart, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Stewart of Goodland, Kan., to Dorsey Weston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Irving Weston of Gibbon, took place at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon at the Warren Methodist Church. The Rev. Keith Shepherd solemnized the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. G. W. Schaeffer. As the maid of honor and only attendant Miss Lucille Wright appeared in an after-five frock of taffeta in the ashes of roses shade.

Cecil Weston of Gibbon served his brother as best man.

The bride chose a gown of Sorrento blue taffeta for her wedding. The basque bodice, with its bracelet-length sleeves, was designed with a surplice of taffeta folds which created a V neckline in front and back. The skirt, in the after-five mode, flared into accentuated fullness. Her costume was completed with a small hat of blue flowers and she carried yellow-throated white orchids encircled with white carnations.

Mrs. Weston attended Kansas State Teachers College at Hays, Kan., and is a member of Tri Sigma sorority. She has been a member of the staff of the Lincoln Clinic for the past few years.

Davis of Colorado Springs was a Tuesday-to-Saturday visitor in Lincoln—the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cooper. Mrs. Davis went from Lincoln to Dallas, Tex., where she joined Col. Davis—and from Dallas the travelers took off for a month's holiday in Florida.

ALSO on the travelers' list is Mrs. Ted Barger who planed off last Friday evening for San Mateo, Calif., where she will remain through Christmas as the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hein, Jr. There were two other good reasons for Mrs. Barger's trip—one of them is her grandson, Billy—and the second, but probably the most important at the moment, is her brand new granddaughter, Barbara Ann.

And just for your address book—The new address of Mr. and Mrs. Hein and their family is 1712 Yorktown Rd., San Mateo.

HAPPY NEWS from Omaha informs us of the birth of a son, John Thomas, to Mr. and Mrs. John T. McGreer III on Friday, Nov. 22. Young John's paternal grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. John T. McGreer, Jr. of Lincoln and his maternal grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. F. Wayne Brewster of Holdrege. Mrs. McGreer, the former Marilyn Brewster, will be remembered as an Alpha Phi at Nebraska. Mr. McGreer, now a student at the University of Nebraska Medical College in Omaha, was a Phi Kappa Psi at NU.

Former Coed Is Bride

MRS. JERRY P. TRIMBLE

For the wedding of Miss Mary Alice Anderson, daughter of Vernon Anderson of Oakland, and Jerry P. Trimble, son of Maj. and Mrs. C. M. Trimble of London, England, which took place on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24, the chancel of the West Side Methodist Church in Oakland was appointed with cathedral candles in branched candelabra, and arrangements of Shasta daisies and greenery. The Rev. C. H. Lind of Lincoln solemnized the 4 o'clock service, and Mrs. Charles Johnson, organist played the wedding music. Mrs. Johnson also accompanied Miss Norma Bossard the vocal soloist.

Miss Betty Olson of Omaha, as To Entertain PEO Chapter

Mrs. Corwin Moore will be hostess to the members of Chapter DL, PEO, at her home, 2210 Sheridan, on Monday evening. The program on the Supreme convention will be given by Mrs. Pearl Van Gilden, and hostesses for the 7:30 o'clock dessert supper will be Mrs. Robert Walters and Mrs. E. E. Clark.

Will Elect

Advisory board members of the Lancaster Association for Retarded Children will meet for a noon luncheon and election of officers on Monday at the Hotel Cornhusker. Mrs. E. W. Orme, luncheon chairman, also will be in charge of the program. The meeting will be held in observance of national Retarded Childrens Week.

the maid of honor; and bridesmaids Mrs. Harold Demaree of Lincoln; Miss Pat Purcell of Fremont, and Miss Mary Lou Johnson of Wausa, appeared in alike frocks of sapphire blue fashioned with snugly fitted bodices, and bouffant skirts in the daytime length. Each carried a bouquet of white fujii chrysanthemums.

David Fahrbach of Lincoln served Mr. Trimble as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Babcock, also of Lincoln; Robert Otten and John Otten, both of Omaha.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white taffeta and re-embroidered lace. The lace patterned the brief sleeves and contoured the portrait neckline of the fitted bodice. The lace was repeated in applique sprays below the waistline beneath which the wide skirt flared into accentuated fullness and was completed with a whisper train. A scalloped plateau cap of seed pearls and sequins held in place the veil of imported French illusion, and she carried white orchids on a white Bible.

Following the reception in the church parlors, Mr. Trimble and his bride left for a honeymoon trip to Colorado, and upon their return they will reside at 2633 Garfield St. Mrs. Trimble traveled in a sheath frock of mist green wool, worn with a bolero jacket, and black accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She now is a speech therapist in the Crete and Wilber public schools.

Mr. Trimble is attending the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Several Air Force families will be celebrating Thanksgiving with dinner at the Officer's Club on Thursday, and among those planning to attend the affair are Maj. and Mrs. Dean Foster, Capt. and Mrs. Clifford Pratt, Capt. and Mrs. Gordon Ware, and Capt. and Mrs. Leslie Foster. Of course the members of the younger set will be accompanying their parents.

Host and hostess at a holiday dinner on Thursday will be Mr. and Mrs. Norman Underdahl who will have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Sebina and their son, Stevie.

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Since the operation he and his mother and sister, Pamela Lea, have been the guests of Mrs. Moreland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Howard Johnson of Omaha, until their return home yesterday.

Back to Thanksgiving plans once more, and we learn that Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy of Tecumseh will be the Thanksgiving guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy Jr., and their children, Steve and Claudia.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bray and their children, Ann, Dick and Patrick, will be motoring to Tecumseh to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Bray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morrissey, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Morrissey.

Candlelight Service

MRS. HAROLD L. GLANZ

Miss Alma Firestone, daughter of Mrs. Marie Firestone and of John Firestone, Jr., became the bride of Harold L. Glanz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Glanz, at an evening ceremony solemnized on Saturday, Nov. 23. The chancel of Grace Methodist Church was decorated with lighted white candles and pedestal bouquets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums and greenery for the service, which was read by the Rev. Merrill Willis. Mrs. Dantine Beideck, organist, played the wedding music and the vocal soloist was Ralph Yanike.

Mrs. Donald K. Shanks was her twin sister's matron of honor and wore a sheath frock in gold peau de soie. A pleated band framed the neckline of the Empire bodice and extended down the back in hem-length streamers, and her costume was completed by a half-hat of gold-toned feathers. Wearing identical ensembles in seafoam green were Mrs. Warren Firestone, the bridesmatron, and Miss Mary Hollett, the bridesmaid. The attendants carried gold and bronze chrysanthemums. Mrs. Bobby Millwood and Mrs. Maurice Salmen of Marquette lighted the candles.

Serving as best man was Roger Kaltenberger, and the ushers were Warren Firestone and Peter Reifschneider.

The bride appeared in a gown of white tulle and Chantilly-type lace. Iridescent sequins patterned the lace of the mandarin collar, and the lace bodice was completed by long, tapered sleeves. The lace also was repeated in applique medallions to trim the full, tulle skirt, which ended in a train, and her illusion veil was held by a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade of white feathered carnations.

A reception for 115 guests was held in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Glanz will reside at 2910 Dudley.

Beware Of The Dog!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee myself so I have nothing against going out with men who have been divorced, but there is one man who has kept me on the string for over five years now. Some say he is legally divorced and others say he is "separated." He doesn't say. I wasted six years of my life on a fellow who was "separated" but with a divorce in the works and he finally went back to his wife and I don't want this to happen again because I'm not getting any younger. He is a handsome dog and I love him very much, but how can I find out if there is any future in it for me?

TIRED OF WAITING
DEAR TIRED: First—find out if that handsome dog is spouse-broke. Then . . . take it from there.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 17 and when I go out with boys they get a little fresh. I have never been out with a boy in the last 3 months who has not gotten fresh. I don't let them get away with anything, but my girlfriend completely disagrees with me. She thinks if you want to be popular you should give a boy what he wants. Although I know you will say that I am right, could you please give me a good reason why?

IN DOUBT
DEAR IN DOUBT: Because most fellows who get fresh know that if they can get away with it—anybody else can—and who wants an "easy" girl?

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a jet pilot. I just met him when he finished his training and every time I ask him about his past he says, "That's a long story . . ." He seems so nice and polite and everything I can't imagine him having anything in his past that he would be ashamed of. Should I insist on knowing or should I just let it go? He is 22 and I am 19.
SUSAN

DEAR SUSAN: No matter how long the story is . . . tell him you want to hear it . . . ALL! Your jet pilot should straighten up and fly right.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I quit a perfectly good job as an aid at the hospital to take a job caring for a man who was 90 years old. He has one sister who is 87 and he has no living children and neither has she. This old man is very rich and he told me if I came to work for him I would get his house and $5,000 if I stayed with him until he died. His health is getting better and I am not feeling too good. I took the job for less than I got at the hospital because of his promise. His lawyer has hinted around to me that maybe they will put me off and hire a male nurse for him. What about his promise to me? I am 61.

G. J.
DEAR G. J.: If you cannot afford the service of a lawyer, I suggest that you go to your local Legal Aid Society. You need some expert legal advice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MOREY:
Next time give MONEY. You know the size is right and so is the color!

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of The Lincoln Star. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Extension Club Meets

The Sharon Extension Club members were entertained at a morning coffee on Friday at the home of Mrs. Elmer Christiansen. During the business meeting, the group planned the program for the coming year and voted to have "secret pals."

A reading on Thanksgiving was given by Mrs. Albert Strauss, and the lesson on making cookies was given by Mrs. Dale Grover and Mrs. Christiansen.

The next meeting will be the club's annual Christmas dinner and party, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Guy Matson on Tuesday, Dec. 10.

Mothers Club Has Meeting

The Bethany Mothers Club met Friday afternoon at the Bethany Christian Church with Mrs. Arthur Lux presiding. Another in the series of sewing demonstrations was held, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Hicks and Mrs. Harlan Low.

Bridge Club Elects

The Duplicate Bridge Club elected five new members of its board of directors Sunday evening.

New directors not pictured are James Porter and Mrs. Ed Taber. Hold-over members are Robert Baskins and Mrs. Dan Jetts.

The new board will take office in January and will elect officers from its group.

Courtesy

Science Lag 'Worse Than Pearl Harbor'—Dr. Teller

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller, chief architect of the hydrogen bomb, said Sunday the United States has lost "a battle more important and greater than Pearl Harbor" in lagging behind Russia in science.

Teller described the situation as "very sad and dangerous" and said he did not know how long it will take the United States to catch up with Russia in science.

"Most people do not understand how serious the situation really is," he declared.

"Don't See How" Building prestige for science in the United States "will be a long and hard struggle and I do not know how we shall accomplish it," Teller said in a filmed program.

In a democratic society, "everything is done with the understanding of the people," he said, so American science must win the support of the people before it can be respected here as it is in the Soviet Union.

"You can not have good football without a lot of football fans," Teller said. "You can not have good science without a lot of science fans."

He predicted that the nation with the best scientists will control the future.

"Too Highbrow" American scientists have become "too highbrow," he said, and should realize the urgency of explaining what they are doing so that the man in the street can understand.

Teller also predicted that science soon might be able to use nuclear explosions to engineer waterways, better harbors and other big projects.

On the same program, Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, key man in development of the atomic submarine, warned that minerals and mineral fuels are being used up at an ever-increasing rate and can not be replaced.

"You can't replace materials which took millions of years to make," Rickover said.

Science hopes atomic energy will "take care of this," he said. That is why atomic power for peacetime uses must be made economical as soon as possible, he asserted.

Nobody To Blame Rickover said the main problem of quickly developing atomic energy for industry is not lack of dollars but the failure to assign responsibility. The nation should know whom to blame for any deficiency, he said.

Rickover echoed Teller's opinion that the public must be educated to respect intellectuals.

The program, a survey of the development of atomic power for peaceful uses, also had interviews with Adm. Lewis E. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Sr. John Cockcroft, a Nobel Prize winner who is in charge of all nuclear developments for Great Britain.

Safety First Strauss said the most important job facing the atoms-for-peace program is the establishment and enforcement of international health and safety standards.

All nations could suffer from the "increasing problem of atomic wastes as the nations of the world build more and more atomic plants," he said.

Cockcroft described Britain's progress in developing controlled nuclear fusion using heavy hydrogen from the oceans of the world. He predicted that perfection of the process would mean "energy in unlimited supply. . . the world would never run out of energy."

Omahan Held As Iowan Dies After Brawl

OMAHA (AP)—A 16-year-old Omahan was held for questioning Sunday night pending a final autopsy report in the death of Edward Coontz, 19, of Woodbine, Iowa.

Coontz died late Saturday night in a Council Bluffs, Iowa hospital where he had been confined since Nov. 19.

Coontz's attending physician requested an investigation and an autopsy after it was reported his patient had been involved in a street brawl in Omaha Nov. 15.

A Council Bluffs pathologist, who performed an autopsy Sunday, said he "could not find much evidence of injury from a fight." He said he found only discoloration over one eye and a bruise on the shoulder.

The pathologist said Coontz apparently was suffering from a kidney ailment, known as nephritis. It appeared, he added, that Coontz had been ill for some time.

Laboratory tests are expected to be completed by Monday night. The 16-year-old Omahan was quoted by detectives as saying Coontz challenged him to a fight while both were at an Omaha drive-in. One witness described it as a "wild street fight" with both battlers kicking at one another.

The Omahan was booked by police for investigation.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

It is not too early to think of Christmas cards. In fact, cats, it is pretty near too late.

Christmas cards are very social these days. And if you wish Christmas cards that will impress your friends, you must order them back about July. I do not mean the ready-to-wear cards you pick up off the drugstore racks. I mean the tailor-made. The elegant, silvered cards with your name PRINTED on.

These are the kind that infuriate the receiver.

"Well, for heaven's sake," says the receiving lady. "Looks like the Jones's are getting mighty high and mighty in the world. I'll bet these cards cost every cent of a quarter. And their poor, little boy running around with patched pants."

The reason the lady says this with gritted teeth is because she is wondering what reception her own cards are getting.

Does Mrs. Jones know she bought the ones marked down to 14 cents?

Maybe she should have bought the same ones—the one with silver frost on the trees. But they cost four cents more and these were such a bargain.

On the other hand, they had samples of Mrs. Jones's cards in the same store. And if she bought them there—well, then she KNOWS. The proprietor is a gossip. It would be just like him to tell.

Yes, and just like Mrs. Jones to ask.

"Next year," says Madam firmly, "I think we won't send ANY cards. Just telephone people we like on Christmas Day. It is more personal."

"Heavenly days," says the master of the mansion, "what brought this on?"

"Joe, I don't think you listen to a word I say."

Joe then rises and mutters something about running down to the corner for a cigar. He shuffles into the nearest grog shop.

"A short beer," says Joe. "You know, I think women are peculiar."

It is not saloons that are driving us to drink. It is the social problems.

Well, Americans will send each other two-and-a-half BILLION cards this Merry Yuletide. Up two hundred million from last year.

The cost of this well wishing will be $260,000,000. Plus $70,000,000 for Uncle Sugar's underpaid mailmen. Two per cent will be bitten by dogs while delivering the season's greeting. Merry Christmas! The average cost per card is 11 cents.

People in my neighborhood who send me 11-cent cards will regret it. My cards cost 16 cents—a matter which I regret each time I look at my bank balance. However, 11-cent card senders will regret it more.

They will be consumed with jealousy. And they will imagine me holding the envelope up to the light to read the hallmark and commenting:

"Saw these the other day on the Tuesday special. Only 11 cents."

That is the way we rate the cats who try to short-change us in the Christmas card department. Send me an 11-cent card this Christmas and I will send you a two-for-a-dime of the drugstore remainders next year.

It is just as bad to send a big flossy card you know must have set the people back half a buck. I get some of these.

As cards come in, we pin them on the wall over the fireplace. It makes a colorful display. We throw away the 11-centers and stick up the ones with enough gold plate to show we have rich friends.

We stick the big 50-centers in the middle. The ones embossed so heavily the stick right out in the room. Like the tail fins on a Cadillac.

We do not approve of such ostentatious cards. But they sure stand out.

In this way, all our friends can come over and walk up and down in front of them and make snooty comments. Sometimes their card is not there. It was tossed out. Then friendship becomes very strained.

"Now where in the world did we put it?" we cry. "I remember just as well. I said: 'That is a real simple but beautiful card and I want it in the middle.' I guess it got mixed up with the magazines and got thrown out. You know how Christmas is!"

That's right. You know how it is. Don't you?

The sugar beet expert said, however, that the area did not receive the sun it needed for sugar development. Resultant sugar content only will be about 14 per cent. Last year the sugar content was 16 per cent.

Some of the county's largest producers were Carl E. Bacon, Henry Ortherman and Alex Schmidt, all Lexington area farmers.

Neligh Man, 59, Accused Of Shooting At Six Boys

NELIGH, Neb. (AP) — Sheriff Lawrence Ritscher said Sunday a 59-year-old Neligh bachelor would be charged with assault with intent to commit great bodily injury in connection with a shooting incident.

Sheriff Ritscher said Dorsey Schoenfeldt had been accused of firing a 12 gauge shotgun at six teen-age boys, hitting four of them. None was seriously wounded.

The sheriff said the shotgun was fired from a distance of about a half block and old shells were used, lessening the danger to the boys.

The shooting incident occurred Friday night, the sheriff said. He added that none of the youths was hospitalized for treatment.

Anderson Brothers Run Henry's Business District

Lincoln Star Special

HENRY, Neb. — Herk and Lee C. Anderson, brothers, have recently completed more than 41 years in business in this tiny village of 180 population which nudges close to the Wyoming state line.

The brothers have operated a grocery, dry goods and notions store and a hardware store respectively during those years.

Their businesses occupy most of the area on the west side of Henry's one block long business street. They own all but one building, which houses the drug store, along that block.

Their businesses being the largest operations in the town there have been suggestions that the name be changed from Henry to Andersonville. For every longtime resident of the North Platte valley knows the Anderson brothers.

Lee arrived in this western town first from Wilsonville and opened a hardware store. He has sold farm machinery through all those years and as electrical appliances became popular he added those to his store.

Lee has turned the business over to his son, Robert B. Anderson, although he still keeps his hand in running the operations.

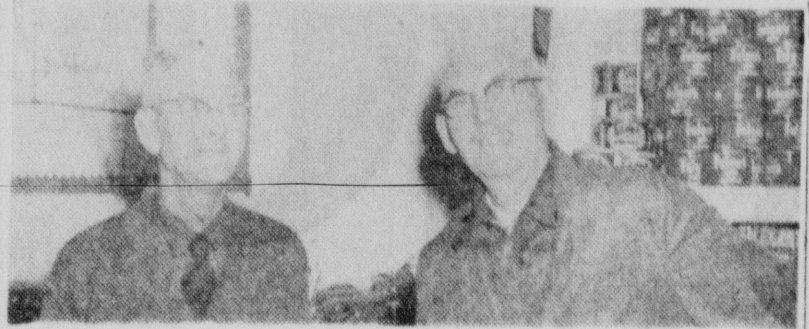

Herk followed him from Wilsonville and started a grocery store. It grew, too, to include shoes, piece goods and notions, a department store for this small town.

Mrs. Anderson handles the piece goods and notions. Herk has turned that over to her but he still operates the grocery store.

Herk says he has watched the North Platte valley grow in those 41 years. "There wasn't much here when we came to Henry," he says.

"The valley will continue to grow," Herk says. "We are just getting to the place where it can grow. New industries are coming and with the sources of power, gas and water we have more will come."

In Business 41 Years

Duke Will Play In Orange Bowl

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference Sunday selected Duke University to represent it in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day against Oklahoma of the Big Eight.

North Carolina State, the conference champion with a 5-0-1 ACC record and 7-1-2 overall, could not be selected because the school is under four years probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

Duke, which completed its regular season Saturday with a 13-21 defeat from arch-rival North Carolina, finished its season with a 5-1-1 league mark and 6-2-2 over-all.

The ACC bowl committee met in Chapel Hill earlier Sunday to make a recommendation to the conference. Conference Commissioner James Weaver said the faculty representatives of the eight schools were polled later and Duke selected.

It will be Duke's second appearance in the Orange Bowl under a contract with the bowl and the Big Eight. In 1955 Duke defeated Nebraska 34-7.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

Nebraska's worst football season is history. The misfortune of the 1957 Huskers is best forgotten and quickly, too.

Nothing will be gained by remaining in the cups and dwelling on that phase of the Cornhusker problem. It's well to remember that a similar fate could easily have befallen the 1956 team. In past years, Nebraska benefitted from some luck that this year's team just didn't get.

Against Oklahoma, although throunced, the Huskers went down battling to the last minute. There were no quitters that day.

Nebraska's problems can only be solved in the future, not by sulking over the dismal record of 1957.

Actually, the 1957 season can be a blessing in disguise if it serves to awaken the state. An aroused determined populace can do much to help.

The Touchdown Club and Extra Point Club is a step in the right direction, but there's more needed than just dollars.

Few states have more football tradition than Nebraska. Yet it's getting to the point where being interested in winning football games—from midlevels to college—is looked upon as a sin.

A high school coach makes a suggestion aimed at improving prep football and he's blasted by an Omaha educator who scores "over emphasis" of football.

The NSAA soon will consider further limitations on high school football.

In Lincoln—which used to supply the nucleus for Nebraska teams, but now can't give promise of a single prospect—plush cathedrals of learning are erected at every opportunity.

But one of the state's prep rivalries, Lincoln vs. Scottsbluff, is sacrificed for economy's sake.

These are just a few of the many things affecting Husker foot-ball.

Why shouldn't there be an emphasis on football in Nebraska? The Cornhuskers were one of the few points of pride around here during the dark days of the 30s. They gave everyone a focal point for esprit de corps and enjoyment.

Now all that is evil, cry the school teachers, not only on the college level but even on the prep scene.

Nuts! There's nothing wrong with football. There's no reason why it can't enjoy a statewide revival. Certainly all of the players needed by the Huskers can't be supplied from within the boundaries of the state.

But the caliber of high school can be improved and the old folks can help by taking an interest in the situation and giving the horse laugh to those who ridicule the value of athletics on any level.

On the university scene, leadership could come from the Board of Regents. A strong stand, rather than lip service is needed. The Regents, who once allowed de-emphasis talk to be shouted from the roof top of the administration building, could start the ball rolling by letting the state know, in unequivocal terms, that the university realizes the value of intercollegiate athletics and will leave no stone unturned in an effort to see that the Nebraska program succeeds.

There is opposition to football within the university because the educators fear the football player will be considered "something special and apart from the rest of the student body."

What's wrong with that? A football player is something special. And when he trots on that field before 30,000 people, as a representative of the institution, he's extra special.

Someone in authority at the university can make it plain that the Cornhuskers are going to be considered as "different" from the average student because they are. Successful athletic programs are not developed by denying the athlete special status.

Bill Jennings and his staff will carry the bulk of the burden, but their task can be made easier.

Nebraska isn't going to become a national power overnight—or maybe ever—but the Huskers don't have to remain in the Big Eight basement. They can become a conference contender again and that should be the immediate goal.

This can best be accomplished by everyone—officials as well as the rank and file fellows—recognizing that interest in high school and college football is not an indication of moral and intellectual dis-integration.

Nebraskans need not feel ashamed of working together for the improvement of one of the state's greatest traditions.

Sox Won't Swap Fox, Aparicio

CHICAGO (INS) — The Chicago White Sox turned thumbs down Sunday on Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane's bid to secure either second baseman Nellie Fox or shortstop Luis Aparicio.

Lane, who met with Chicago White Sox Vice Presidents Chuck Comiskey and John Rigney at Comiskey Park, said he was mainly interested in "infield help."

The newly appointed Cleveland G. M., said, however, he would like to get centerfielder Larry Doby back and he was given some assurance by Comiskey and Rigney that some kind of a deal for Doby could be made.

Sooner Frosh Star Wounded By Gun Shot

PAULS VALLEY, Okla. (AP) — A University of Oklahoma freshman football player was hospitalized here with a bullet wound suffered in a shooting on a country road near here Sunday.

Garvin County Sheriff Tom Abney said Billy Joe Nalley, 27, owner of a farm where the shooting occurred, was being held in jail for investigation in the incident. No charges had been filed.

The wounded youth, Phillip Lohmann, 18, Pauls Valley, under-went surgery for removal of a bul-let which had lodged against his skull. His condition was termed "quite satisfactory" by his doctor.

Sheriff Abney said Nalley "told the following story:

Lohmann drove into a field on Nalley's property, apparently to turn around after coming to a dead-end road. Nalley drove his pickup to the scene and shouted to Lohmann to stop. When Loh-mann failed to do so, Nalley said, he fired four pistol shots at the car.

Norma Schebester, 17, Pauls Valley, with Lohmann in the car, was not hurt. She drove Lohmann to the hospital and reported the shooting to officers.

Lohmann, an all-state football player for Pauls Valley High school until his graduation last year, has been a star halfback on the Uni-versity of Oklahoma freshman team this season.

Long Beach To Replace Hollywood?

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—City Councilman Pat Ahern Sunday re-vealed that the Hollywood fran-chise in the Pacific Coast League is for sale and that Long Beach and Salt Lake City are interested in it.

From another source it was learned that Mexico City, for sev-eral years considered as a possible PCL city, also is interested and will have representatives at the minor and major league conven-tions in Colorado Springs Dec. 2-6.

Ahern, long active in baseball and a leading figure to bring or-ganized baseball to Long Beach, said his information about the Hol-lywood franchise, one of the most valuable in the PCA, came from the league president, Leslie O'Connor.

Hunting Luck Depended On Ability

Nebraska's 30-day pheasant sea-son, which closed at sunset, Nov. 24, was disappointing to many hunters and good to others, Game Commission Director Mel Steen reported.

"Whether the hunting was disap-pointing or rewarding depended on the hunters' ability to find and route the wary birds out of the greatly increased acreage of cover existing in the state this year," he said.

This condition cramped the style of most hunters, Steen said, but it holds promise for a greater win-ter survival and a better pheasant production in 1958.

New Yorkers Remain In NFL Second Spot

CHICAGO (AP) — Chuck Conerly rifled two scoring passes and set up two other touchdowns with his aerials Sunday to pilot the New York Giants to a 28-21 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

The Giants remained in second place in the Eastern Division of the National Foot-ball League, a half game behind the Cleveland Browns, who defeated the Los Angeles Rams 45-31.

Conerly, 36-year-old veteran of 10 pro seasons, put the Giants ahead 28-7 at halftime. The Cardinals held them scoreless in the second half but couldn't close the gap before a slim turnout of 19,200 partisans at Comiskey Park.

The Giants scored twice in the first nine minutes of the game. Conerly's 70-yard pass play to Bob Schnelker set up Alex Webster's eventual one-yard blast for the TD. Ben Agajanian booted the first of his four extra points.

Three minutes later, Dick Nolan stole Ted Marchibroda's pass and the Giants scored again on Conerly's toss to Kyle Rote for 33 yards.

At the outset of the second quar-ter, Conerly speared Frank Gif-ford for a 21-yard touchdown.

Trailing 21-0, the Cardinals came to life with the longest play of the game. Ted Marchibroda passed 35 yards to Ollie Matson who sprinted 40 more to score.

Later the Giants went ahead 23-7 when Conerly's pitch to Ken Maca-fee was good for 41 yards to make room for Webster's two-yard scor-ing smash. Emlen Tunnell's inter-ception of Marchibroda's aerial touched off the drive. He stole three passes in all.

Tempers flared occasionally. The Giant's Dick Yelvington was ejected in the second period after tak-ing a punch at the Cards' Carl Brettschneider. Both were thumbed out for fighting.

The Cardinals, stopped on the one after a 65-yard surge in the third quarter, tallied twice in the fourth. In the opening minutes, Lamar McHan drilled a 13-yard touchdown pass to Gern Nagler ending a 45-yard thrust. A 33-yard pass interference ruling against the Giants gave the Cardinals their chance.

Midway in the quarter, McHan combined with Matson on a 62-yard pass-run scoring play and Pat Summerall booted his third extra point.

The Giants, who failed even to threaten in the third, had a chance in the final minute of the game when Tunnell filched McHan's toss to give New York possession on the Cards' 23. But Agajanian's fourth down field goal attempt from the 22 was wide.

Conerly completed 7 out of 17 passes for 205 yards, while the Cards hit on 13 out of 36 for 266. Matson picked up 57 yards in 12 carries.

For the Giants, Gene Filipski romped 62 in 13 and Gifford 41 in 13.

Giants scoring — Touchdowns: Webster 2 (1, plunge; 2, plunge); Rote (33, pass-run from Conerly); Gifford (21, pass from Conerly). Conversions: Agajanian 4.

Cardinals scoring — Touchdowns: Matson 2 (75, pass-run from Marchibroda; 62, pass-run from McHan); Nagler (13, pass from McHan). Conversions: Summerall 1.

COLTS NAB LEAD, TOP 49ERS, 27-21

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Balti-more Colts came from behind for the third time on the passing of quarterback John Unitas to whip the San Francisco 49ers 27-21 in the last four minutes Sunday and take over first place in the West-ern Conference of the National Football League.

The Colts, 49ers and the De-troit Lions went into the day's games all tied up with 5 victories and 3 defeats apiece. The Lions were knocked off 27-7 by the Chi-cago Bears, defending conference champs. Three games remain to be played.

Quarterback Y. A. Tittle, a one-time Baltimore pro, kept the 49ers in step with the Colts throughout by plunging for two touchdowns and passing for the other.

His passes moved them 70 yards for a tying touchdown in the fourth period and Gordy Soltau converted to give the 49ers a 21-20 lead.

The key play in the drive was a 31-yard pass by Unitas to end Ray Berry on last down that winged the Colts to the San Fran-cisco 24. There was less than one minute to play when Ameche went over the goal for the sixth Col-t victory, most ever in their NFL history.

San Francisco 6 14 0 7-21
Baltimore 6 14 0 7-21
San Francisco scoring—touchdown: Wil-son (19, pass-run from Tittle); Tittle 2 (1-foot, plunge; 1-foot plunge). Con-versions: Soltau 2.

Baltimore scoring—touchdowns: Moore (41, run); Durre (11, run); Ameche (6, pass-run from Unitas). Conversions: My-stra 3. Field Goals: Mystra 2 (16, 13).

Bears Tip Lions Off Top, 27-7

DETROIT (AP)—The Chicago Bears overcame a rash of early penalties and dealt the Detroit Lions a stunning 27-7 National Football League defeat Sunday be-hind workhorse Rick Casares.

The loss dropped Detroit out of a first-place tie in the Western Conference standings.

The Bears wiped out Detroit's 7-0 first-period lead with a 17-point spurge in the second quarter and their massive defense threw back every Detroit threat the rest of the distance.

Casares was the man the Bears called on when they needed im-portant yardage and the big full-back came through in spectacular fashion. He scored twice on runs of one and 25 yards and another 22-yard touchdown run in the first half was nullified by a penalty.

Although quarterback Ed Brown set up Chicago's first score with three pass completions, Casares was the whole show before the overflow crowd of 55,749. George Blanda kicked a pair of field goals for the Bears.

The defense recovered two De-troit fumbles and the Bears con-verted them into 10 points.

Chicago scoring — Touchdowns: Watkins (7, run); Casares 2 (25, run; 1, plunge); Field goals: Blanda 2 (16, 20). Con-versions: Blanda 3.

Detroit scoring — Touchdown: Giedman (7, run). Conversion: Layne.

McDONALD SHIFT PEPS BIRDS, 21-12

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Phil-adelphia Eagles unveiled All Amer-ica halfback Tommy McDonald as an end Sunday and the former Ok-la-homa Sooner caught two touch-down passes as the Birds defeated the Washington Redskins, 21-12, in a National Football League game at Connie Mack Stadium.

Trailing 6-0 as the result of two field goals by the Redskins' Sam Baker, the Eagles grabbed the lead in the second period when McDonald leaped high between two Washington defenders and snatched a pass from rookie quar-terback Sonny Jurgensen for a 61-yard touchdown play.

A third field goal by Baker en-abled Washington to lead 9-7 at halftime. But in the third quarter, Jurgensen directed a six play, 76-yard drive climaxed by the quar-terback's 9-yard scoring aerial to Dick Bielski. Bobby Walston's sec-ond of three conversions made it 14-9.

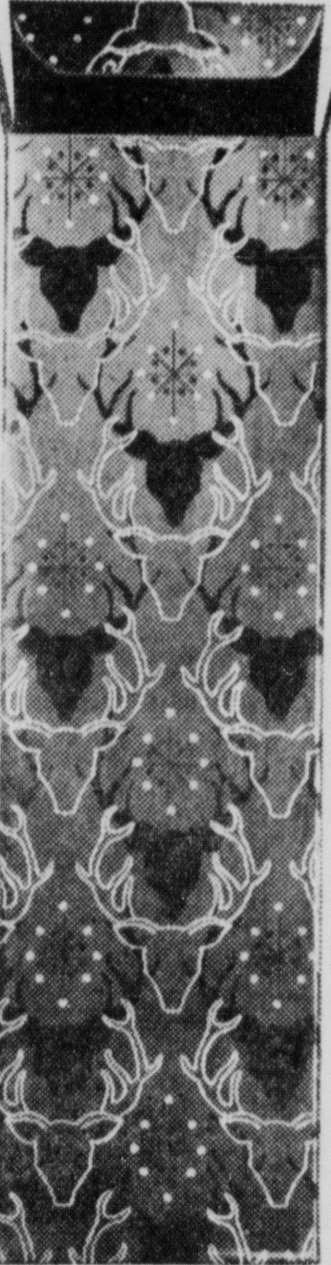

Baker booted a fourth field goal in the third period to bring the Skins within two points at 14-12. But McDonald, who heretofore had been used solely as a punt and kickoff return specialist, took a short pass from Jurgensen and raced 25 yards into the end zone to complete a 36 yard touchdown play.

Washington 3 6 3 6-12
Philadelphia 6 7 7 21-12

Washington scoring—Field goals: Baker 4 (12, 19, 16, 20).

Philadelphia scoring—touchdowns: Mc-Donald 2 (61, pass-run from Jurgensen; 36, pass-run from Jurgensen). Bielski 9, pass from Jurgensen. Conversions: Walston 3.

Cotton Eyes Tar Heels, Clemson

DALLAS (AP) — North Carolina and Clemson, members of the Atlantic Coast Conference, were injected into the Cotton Bowl picture Sunday.

President Bob Cullum said these two were being considered for the Jan. 1 game along with Navy, Mississippi, Mississippi State and "the winner of the Tennessee-Vanderbilt game next Saturday."

The Atlantic Coast Conference sends its representative to the Orange Bowl but Cullum said "It would be a fine thing if that conference would give permission for them (Clemson or North Carolina) to come here." Duke is going to the Orange Bowl from the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Both North Carolina and Clemson have 6-3 records but they have some top showings, such as North Carolina's defeat of Navy and Duke, and Clemson's victory over Rice, the team that looks like the best bet for host in the Cotton Bowl.

"No bowl is going to have an undefeated team," Cullum pointed out, "and a team with a 7-3 record is about as good as any to be obtained."

Cullum said he felt that with any of the teams named, the Cotton Bowl would "be an outstanding attraction."

The selection of the visiting team will not be made until next Saturday, however. That's the day Navy plays Army. It is generally understood that Navy will be ready to come to the Cotton Bowl if it beats Army. If not, then the Cotton Bowl will have to look elsewhere.

Aussie Committee Raps Don Candy

MELBOURNE (AP)—The Australian Lawn Tennis Assn. reprimanded Don Candy for receiving allowances and expenses contrary to instructions.

D. M. Ferguson, president of the association, said after a special meeting of the council that Candy admitted receiving expenses for appearing in the German championships in Dusseldorf on July 17, and the Swiss championships from July 22-July 28.

A statement issued by the association said it does not intend imposing a penalty on his amateur status, but added "Candy was severely reprimanded and warned that any further breaches will be regarded very seriously."

Spain Has Chance

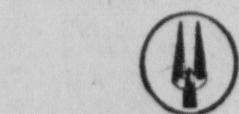

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Spain's national soccer team defeated Switzerland 4-1 Sunday and kept its chance of qualifying for the world cup finals in Sweden.

The victory gave Spain second place behind Scotland in the Spain-Scotland-and-Switzerland world cup elimination group—and the possibility of being drawn among the other European second-placed teams to meet Israel in a separate qualification match.

Sooners, ND Place 3 On All-Midlands

ST. LOUIS (INS)—Big Eight titleholder Oklahoma, the No. 1 team in the nation until its recent upset by Notre Dame, and Missouri placed three players each on the 1957 All-Midlands football squad.

The International News Service all-star eleven features a power-packed backfield headed by All-America candidate Clendon Thomas of the Sooners. Two other hard, shifty runners selected were Missouri's "Hammering" Hank Kuhlmann and Colorado's Bob Stransky, one of the country's leading ground gainers all season.

Drake's terrific Roger Labrasca, the passing whiz, was the quarterback.

At the flanks were two stalwarts—Oklahoma's Don Stiller, and Dick Brown of Tulsa, a top passer in the Missouri Valley Conference.

John Peters, highly instrumental in Houston's successful defense of its M.V.C. gridiron crown, and Missouri's Merv Johnson were the first-team tackle choices.

The No. 1 unit guards were Bill Krisher of Oklahoma and Missouri's Charlie (The Toe) Rash. Rash set a new record of conversions when he booted his 23rd straight in the Kansas State game.

That tough middle-man, Kansas State's Ellis Rainsberger, got the nod at center.

Missouri Valley stars, halfbacks Barry Maroney of Cincinnati and Houston's Claude King and quarterback Ray Toole of North Texas State, make up three-fourths of the second-team backfield.

Fullback Jerry Brown, Nebraska's only offensive threat in a dismal season, completes the second team backfield.

Browns' Jim Brown Sets Rush Record As Rams Fall, 45-31

Rookie Fullback Scores Four TDs

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie fullback Jim Brown scored four touchdowns and set a new National League rushing record Sunday to trigger the Cleveland Browns to a 45-31 victory over Los Angeles before a crowd of 65,407.

The Syracuse All-American, a 220-pound bulldozer, piled up 237 yards rushing in 31 tries to erase the league record of 223 set a year ago by Tom Wilson of Los Angeles. The record boosted Brown's league-leading total to 769 yards in 161 tries and his four-touchdown effort hiked him to 9 for the season.

The Browns in retaining the Eastern Division lead by a half-game over the New York Giants came back from a 28-17 deficit in the last half of the wild and woolly contest. Breaks of all kind played a heavy part in the final decision with Los Angeles converting an intercepted pass and a fumble into touchdowns and the Browns using two fumbles and an intercepted aerial as springboards for scores.

Brown's big play was 69-yard touchdown run in the second period to give Cleveland a short-lived 14-7 edge. It was on a simple draw play, but the big fullback fumbled as he was hit on the line of scrimmage. As the ball squirted from his hands he took two steps and caught it and raced the rest of the way untouched.

Tom O'Connell, the Browns' regular quarterback and the league's leading passer, was injured early in the second period with the score tied at 7-7. Milt Plum, rookie from Penn State, took over and piloted the league leaders to five touchdowns and a 48-yard field goal by Lou Groza. It was Groza's 12th three pointer in 17 tries and he also booted a half-down conversions to run his scoring total to 59.

O'Connell threw four passes, completing none and having two intercepted before being sidelined with a shoulder injury. Plum completed 6 of 9 for 62 yards.

Norm Van Brocklin, ace tosser for the Rams, completed 7 of 17 for 123 yards and two touchdowns, both to Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch. Cleveland scoring—Touchdowns: Hirsch 2 (13, run; 1, plunge); Brown 4 (69, run; 1-foot plunge; 1-foot plunge; 4 run). Field goal: Groza (48). Conversions: Groza 6.

Ryder Cup Captain Refuses Apology

LONDON (AP)—British Ryder Cup golf captain Dai Rees Sunday night rejected an apology from Harry Weetman, former teammate who attacked his handling of this year's cup match against the United States.

Weetman is now under a year's suspension for his remarks about Rees during the contest last month. On being dropped after the first day's play, he had declared he would never compete under Rees' leadership again.

The British team beat the Americans and Weetman was later suspended by the British Professional Golfer's Assn. (BPGA).

In a letter to Rees dated Nov. 7, Weetman said he was sorry for his "untimely remarks." He explained he uttered them "for the good of the game and in the best interests of the Ryder Cup team" and that he doesn't "like unfaithfulness of any kind." He did not elaborate that last remark.

Class B '56 Leaders Not So Strong This Year

Geneva, Uni High Hit By Graduation

By AL BEEBE
Star Sports Staff Writer
Last year the Class B basketball season ended here in Lincoln with Geneva edging University High of Lincoln, 51-50, for the state championship.

The same two teams open their seasons together at Geneva on Dec. 6. But the chances aren't too great that they will be meeting each other in the state tourney finals in March.

Both squads lost their complete starting teams. Geneva has five lettermen back, Uni High only four.

Geneva lists only two seniors on the pre-season roster released by coach A. D. Chapman, who took over in mid-season last year.

Lacking experience, the Wildcats will also lack height, unless some of the non-lettermen come along well. The tallest of the five lettermen is Arlan Sherman, a six-foot junior. Senior Sid Stasny is the next tallest among the returnees at 5-10.

Other lettermen are Steve Newman, a 5-7 junior, junior Ray Nichols (5-8), and sophomore Dick Nelson (5-9).

Some promising newcomers add height to the squad, however, particularly 6-3 junior John Picard. Another junior, Jerry Tesar, is 6-1.

Using Stanford's Glenn "Pop" Warner as an example, Taylor said those worries didn't exist in the old days. Warner, coach from 1924-1932, never even had an office.

"He did his thinking alone," Taylor commented. "Warner would just come out to practice. He never had to hold night meetings."

"Now a coach is so tied up in outside activities, he doesn't have an opportunity for a few minutes to himself. This detracts from his coaching ability. He doesn't have time to study and think football."

Taylor contended football is more scientific now, but the head coach has less time to study the game and consider all its intricacies.

"We'd like to study movies more," he said, "but we seldom have the time. We could never get together, it seemed."

Why the emphasis on recruiting? "Coaching is a matter of having tools to work with," Taylor answered. "And the tools in this case are the athletes."

Balding Triumphs

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Rangy Al Balding, puffing on a stogie all the way, won the third annual West Palm Beach Invitational Open Sunday on a 54-hole score of 209.

while senior Bill Cumberland is six feet tall.

The Wildcats aren't likely to match last year's 18-3 mark, and Uni High needs considerable experience to match the 16-5 record The Tutors compiled last season.

Coach Dale Snook's team has the height, however. Jerry Friis and Norm Schafer are both 6-3 lettermen, and another letterman, Uldis Levalds, is 6-2. Backcourt experience comes from 5-8 letterman David Fenner.

Roger Volsted, Elvin Rickert, and Don Schafer, all 6-1 or more, may also help.

Iowa Grid Coach Sidesteps Rumor

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Coach Forest Evash-evski Sunday again sidestepped questions concerning rumors he would leave Iowa for another job.

"I don't know how much longer I'm going to coach," Evy said on his weekly television show in answer to queries from Gus Schrader, sports editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette.

"I don't know my future plans said for a long time I don't want to coach till I'm an old man."

The Hawkeye coach continued, "I don't think you have too many chances at Iowa or any other schools for a national championship. I believe if Iowa had beaten Ohio State we would have won the national title."

The Hawkeyes fell to Ohio State 17-13 a week ago and rebounded in their season finale for a 21-13 victory over Notre Dame.

Evy said he thinks Iowa has one of the two best teams in the nation. He declined to name the other.

Evy praised the Hawkeye squads of the last two seasons, saying, "Anyone could have coached them and won. There was no selfish attitude on the squad and the boys had a lot of determination."

Doubly Accurate

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Excitement was high Sunday around the par three 17th hole at the Laurel Golf Club. The reason? Two holes-in-one.

W. E. Winn, using a five iron, was the first to score an ace on the 148-yard hole. Soon after, Bill Stalked lofted a seven-iron shot into the cup.

Packers Use Breaks, Clip Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Green Bay, a battered cellar-dwelling National Football League club, knocked the Pittsburgh Steelers out of the Eastern Conference football race with an easy 27-10 triumph Sunday with three touchdowns in the second period and two field goals in the final quarter.

The Packers, bruised in last week's heart-breaking 31-27 loss to Los Angeles, turned every miscue by the Steelers into scores to earn themselves the third victory in nine games. The loss was the Steelers' fourth in eight games.

A crowd of 29,701 at Forbes Field saw the Steelers, with two full weeks rest, take an early 3-0 lead in the second quarter on a 17-yard field goal by Gary Glick and then fold like paper napkins.

The Packers, with a 2-6 record, then took advantage of two fumbles, two interceptions and a 40-yard scamper by Howard Ferguson to earn a relatively easy victory.

The Packers scored three touchdowns in the second quarter on a one-yard sneak by quarterback Bart Starr, a 40-yard run by Ferguson, and a five-yard scamper by Babe Parilli. Fred Cone kicked field goals of 24 and 12 yards in the final period.

The Steelers manufactured their scores on a 17-yard field goal by Glick in the second quarter and a 14-yard toss from quarterback Earl Morrall to Jack McClaire in the third period.

McClaire, who last year failed to make the Pittsburgh team, grabbed the first touchdown of his pro-career after Ed Beatty recovered a fumble by the Packers on the 20. The touchdown pass came three plays later.

Away you'll go . . . Keotane-Quick . . . morning after morning, all winter long!

"I'll get a hot spark this morning . . . I'll start fast this morning . . . I'll save my battery this morning."

Get Keotane-Clean "Hot Spark" Starts

(Like having someone warm up your engine ahead of time)

Only Skelly Supreme Gasoline has Keotane . . . and only Keotane "unglues" carbon and lead from spark plugs as you drive, by dissolving the glue-like gum that collects and binds these deposits. Result: You get a quick, clean, "hot spark" start.

ON a cold cold morning you want a fast fast start. But your gasoline is cold . . . the air is cold . . . your engine is cold. And to get a fast start in a cold engine on a cold morning, you need a hot spark. But to get a hot spark, you need clean spark plugs. To be sure of always having clean spark plugs you need Keotane.

It's that simple. Because Keotane dissolves gum, it "unglues" carbon and lead from spark plugs. A 10,000-mile spark plug that's Keotane-Clean shoots a hotter spark than a 3,000-mile plug that's fouled with carbon and lead.

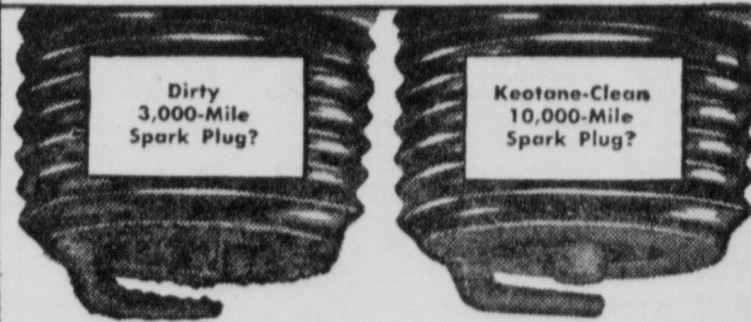

Because Skelly Supreme Gasoline gets spark plugs Keotane-Clean as you drive, users call Skelly Supreme the "hot spark" gasoline. With Skelly

Supreme in their tanks, every time they go to start their cars, they can say, "I'll get a hot spark this morning . . . I'll start fast this morning . . . I'll save my battery this morning."

Because Keotane also gets your carburetor, combustion chambers, valves, and other vital engine parts Keotane-Clean, tests show that Keotane gives an average of 12.7% more miles per gallon, 14.6% more horsepower output, and the performance effect of 3.1 extra octane points. All this adds up to 6.1c extra value per gallon — at no extra cost.

Start tomorrow morning with Skelly Supreme with Keotane — the only "hot spark" gasoline.

Which Will Start Faster?

In only 3,000 miles, even new spark plugs can build up heavy deposits of gum-stuck carbon and lead. This layer of unwanted "insulation" makes starting slow and agonizing—and wears down your battery.

The strong, "hot" spark you get from a Keotane-Clean plug quickly ignites even a cold mixture in a cold engine on a cold morning. You get Keotane-Clean "hot spark" starts —and save your battery!

Only Skelly Supreme Gasoline Gives You 6.1c Extra Value Per Gallon with

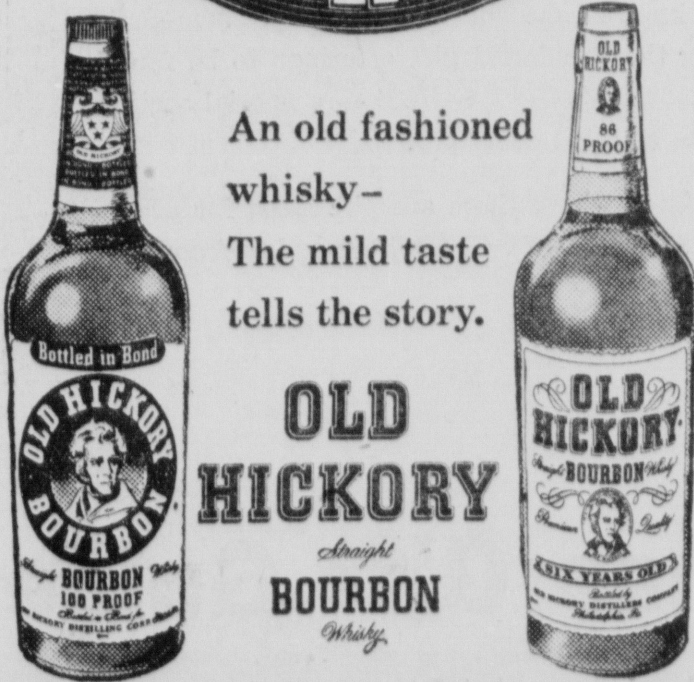

Keotane

(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

6.1c makes other premium gasoline expensive to use;
6.1c makes any regular gasoline expensive to use;
6.1c makes any "cut rate" gasoline expensive to use.

Soviets Claim 'Sweating Walls' Solve Rocket Re-Entry Problem

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Soviet Aviation said Sunday Russia solved a major problem of the intercontinental ballistic missile—the tremendous heat it generates in flight—by using "sweating walls" and a new form of ceramics.

The missile's combustion chamber and the jet nozzle are protected from high temperatures by porous walls through which liquid is forced under pressure. This liquid evaporates and cools the walls, the paper said.

The new form of ceramics is called "metallo-ceramics". The paper said it was ceramics (silicon such as clay) and 10 to 20 per cent cobalt powder heated to very high temperatures.

The article, by V. Parfenov, a major in the Soviet engineering corps, was based on materials used in ballistic rockets. It said metallo-ceramics were used in the body of the rocket as well as in the lining of the rocket's jet nozzle.

Russia's Solution

(The reference to the materials being used in the body of the rocket would indicate this is the Soviet's solution to the problem of bringing a rocket back from space into the earth's atmosphere. Scientists call this the re-entry problem, since the tremendous speed of the missile would cause it to burn up like a meteor in the friction caused by the resistance of the atmosphere.)

(In his speech to the nation on

Nov. 7, President Eisenhower said the United States had solved the re-entry problem. He showed the television audience the nose cone of a rocket he said was fired hundreds of miles into space.

Virgin Material

(The materials used in the U.S. nose cone never were detailed. But Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the Army's ballistic missile agency, said the cone contained a "virgin material.")

(In Washington, Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the U.S. committee for the International Geophysical Year, commented that "this report does not provide sufficient information" for an opinion as to whether the Soviets have actually solved the re-entry problem.)

(Dr. Kaplan said the blending of ceramics and metals for some purposes had long been practiced in this country and the principle of cooling by evaporation is "old as the hills.")

(Dr. Kaplan said he would be surprised if U.S. military researchers were not aware of the possibilities of the scientific principles the Soviets said they used. There was no discussion on the program of the specific use of cobalt in the metal-ceramic mixture.)

Giving Way

Parfenov said the era of rare and exotic metals for use in rockets is giving way to an era of fire-resistant ceramics and metallo-ceramics.

He said the Russians tackled ceramics after discarding wolfram, rhenium, platinum, molybdenum, chrome and gold in their search for something that would withstand tremendous heats generated by rockets in their flights through the atmosphere.

All failed to meet the requirements of fire resistance and weight, he said.

Experiments showed, Parfenov said, that a layer of ceramics around the nose of a rocket protected it from heat but ceramics were found too brittle and unable to withstand the vibration.

"A percentage of cobalt introduced into it to protect its plasticity solved the problem," he said.

He cited earlier experiments in a wind tunnel with a model of a winged rocket made of an unspecified heat resistant alloy.

When the temperature was raised and the wind velocity increased the nose cone began to melt within one second and the rocket completely lost its shape within four seconds, he said.

A BREAK FOR BLIND TRIPLETS

The four-year-old Petraglia triplets, blind since birth, got encouragement from mother, Mrs. Maria Petraglia, and father, Frank, as they break ground with toy shovels for their "dreamhouse" in New York City. The youngsters are suffering from retrolental fibroplasia, for which there is no known cure. Local businessmen and labor leaders donated land and materials for the house, which is specially designed without stairways. (AP Wirephoto)

E. Germany Said Key Soviet Missile Launching Area

BERLIN (AP)—Intelligence sources say Russia has made East Germany a key base area for launching nuclear missiles against vital targets in western Europe in case of war.

The 22 Russian divisions garrisoning Communist East Germany are known to be equipped with short-range missiles for tactical use.

Western intelligence sources now believe the Russians are readying East German launching sites for their new intermediate range ballistic missiles (IRBM).

The Soviet IRBMs, whose ranges are estimated to be up to 1,000 miles, could strike from East Germany at the west European capitals, the main NATO defense bases and targets throughout the British Isles.

These missiles could be fitted with either atomic or hydrogen warheads, these sources say.

SIGHTINGS MAY REVEAL WHEN ROCKET TO DIE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The rocket of Sputnik I, which scientists say is on its last legs, nevertheless put on a good show Sunday night for skywatchers in northeastern United States.

A number of accurate observations were reported, among them sightings by the Cambridge moonwatch team, and by several members of the staff of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, which is handling optical observations of the satellite program.

Dr. John White, observatory scientist, said the sighting reports, along with others expected from moonwatch teams in all parts of the United States, will be used Monday in a new computation of the present orbit of the rocket.

The rocket now is circling the earth in about 90 minutes, which is six minutes faster than its speed the first few days after it was fired into the sky on Oct. 4.

The rocket also is circling closer to the earth and is expected to slow down enough to plunge into the atmosphere some time around Dec. 11.

The new observations, however, may lead to a change in that prediction.

Flames Kill Mom, Three Youngsters

SUTTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Braxton County mother and three children died Sunday in a fire that destroyed their rural one-story dwelling at nearby Buffalo Creek.

Mortuary attendants identified the victims as Mrs. Thelma Roberts, 29, and her youngsters, Joseph, 6; Elaine, 2, and Jeffrey, 3 months.

Two other members of the family were burned in the fire that followed an explosion in a bedroom stove. The father, Granville Roberts Jr., 30, was listed in serious condition. A fourth child, James, 4, was treated for burns and released.

Attendants said that the father was using what he thought was kerosene to start a fire in the bedroom stove. However, one of the children had poured gasoline in the container. The father was standing in front of the stove at the time of the explosion. He saved James by throwing him out the window.

The bodies of the mother and the three children were found huddled in and near a baby crib in an adjoining bedroom.

Sutton Volunteer Fire Chief Joe Gregory said that neighbors spotted the fire, but were unable to telephone for help because the flames had eaten through the party line to which the Roberts phone was connected.

The neighbors were forced to travel two miles to notify firemen. By the time firefighters arrived at the scene, the house had been destroyed.

Albania To Get Red Rubles

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Russia has agreed to extend credit of 160 million rubles and technical assistance to Albania for the development of Albanian industry and agriculture. The Soviet Press has announced. The Russians value the ruble at 25 cents.

Albania's Premier Mehmet Shehu was among visitors to Moscow for the celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution Nov. 7 and subsequent Communist conferences.

Blaze Quelled

CHICAGO (AP)—Scores of firemen from Chicago and suburbs Sunday night brought under control a huge fire which destroyed a Gulf Mobile & Ohio Railroad roundhouse and a warehouse in suburban River Forest.

Damage to the two structures was estimated at $250,000 by Raymond Daley, chief Chicago fire marshal. About 20 per cent of Chicago's firefighting equipment was called to quell the fire and explosions.

Milk Tank Truck, Auto Collide; Six In Family Dead

RUBY, S. C. (AP)—A milk tanker truck driven by a 17-year-old boy Sunday sheared the top off an oncoming sedan and left six members of a family dead.

The collision on a small hill on a paved 20-foot rural road 12 miles south of here fatally injured:

Robert Hazel Miles, 31, of Heath Springs, S. C., a textile worker identified by the highway patrol as the driver of the car; his wife, Christine Pierce Miles, 25; their daughters, Judy, 3, and Jewel, 16; his mother, Mrs. Mary Miles, 50, and his sister, Betty Jean Miles, 16.

Ruby is near the North Carolina line, about 50 miles northwest of Florence.

Gein is charged with first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, who operated a hardware store in Plainfield, just seven miles from the scene, little bachelor's secluded farm. Her mutilated body was found hanging in a shed at the rear of Gein's house the night of Nov. 16.

Gein admits killing Mrs. Worden and a Portage county woman, Mrs. Mary Hogan, who disappeared Dec. 9, 1954 from the tavern she operated in Pine Grove, about six miles from Gein's farm.

Besides Mrs. Worden's remains, the heads of 10 other women were found in Gein's house. One of the skulls tentatively was identified as that of Mrs. Hogan.

Gein admitted killing Mrs. Hogan, but insisted he stole the other nine heads from the Plainfield cemetery in Waushara County and the Spiritland cemetery in the town of Almond in Portage County.

FABULOUSLY RICH OILMAN QUIETLY WED

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas Oilman H. L. Hunt, believed to be one of the world's richest men and once called the richest, Sunday married a former Oklahoma woman.

His marriage to Mrs. Ruth Ray Wright, 36, was a quiet ceremony at the home of Mrs. Wright's pastor, the Rev. McClain Smith of the Lakewood Methodist Church in Dallas.

Mrs. Wright was a resident of Idabel, Okla., before moving to Dallas several years ago.

It was the second marriage for Hunt, 68. His first wife died in May, 1955, after suffering a stroke. They had six children.

In 1945, Life Magazine described Hunt as the richest man in the United States. His holdings recently have been estimated as up to 400 million dollars.

The new Mrs. Hunt's mother said her daughter met the fabulously wealthy oilman while working in a Hunt Oil Co. office.
